Terror, trade dominate summit

We perceive India as a great power, a friendly nation and a time-tested friend - Vladimir Putin

Detailed discussion on Afghan situation and cross-border terror; enhanced cooperation in military, oil & gas, petrochem and space

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

CROSS-border terrorism, the unfolding situation in Afghanistan and military cooperation apart from trade figured in the summit talks between Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Russian President Vladimir here on Monday.

India and Russia inked as many as 28 agreements during Putin's visit. "President Putin's visit was short but highly productive and substantive. There were excellent discussions between the two leaders. Twenty-eight agreements/MoUs were concluded during this visit. These agreements include those between government-to-government and business-to-business," said foreign secretary Harsh Vardhan Shringla.

After the summit talks, Shringla said bilateral trade and investment figured prominently in the talks. "This year, we've noticed an encouraging trend of growth in our trades compared to last year. Both sides are looking forward to continued increase in trade and investment trajectory," he added.

During the talks, Modi and Putin decided to continue close consultation and coordination on Afghanistan. According to the joint statement released late in the evening, Modi and Putin emphasised that Afghanistan's territory should not be used for sheltering, training, planning or financing terrorist groups such as the LeT, ISIS and Al-Qaeda. The part condemning cross-border movement of terrorists is seen as a clear reference to Pakistan.

Indo-Russian cooperation in the strategic area of energy was discussed in detail. "We have expressed our interest in further investments in the oil & gas sector, and in petrochemicals," Shringla said.

Putin said Russia's cooperation with India in the military and technical spheres is unique. "By that I mean we develop technologies together as well as produce in India." he said.

On terrorism and Afghanistan, Putin said, "We continue to cooperate jointly on global agenda... our positions are similar. Naturally, we are concerned about everything that has got to do with terrorism. I mean fight against terrorism, drug trafficking, organised crime etc. We are concerned about the developments and situation in Afghanistan." P9

Nine govt-to-govt pacts in basket of 28

In all, 28 agreements signed, including nine government-to-government pacts. The G2G pacts include developing a roadmap for science, technology and innovation; IPR rights; military-technical ties from 2021 to 2031; earth sciences and geological study of subsoil; amendment to recognise seafarer's identity documents; cultural exchange; peaceful use of outer space plus building and operating space launch vehicles and setting up ground-based space infrastructure

Four agreements in defence sector signed

India and Russia concluded four major defence equipment deals, including procuring 6,01,427 AK-203 assault rifles through Indo-Russia Rifles Prt Ltd. The rifles will be manufactured at a cost of around ₹5,000 crore. The agreements were signed at the 20th meeting of the India-Russia Inter-Governmental Commission on Military and Military-Technical Cooperation. Another pact was on amending the agreement on cooperation in the field of manufacturing of the Kalashnikov series of small arms that was originally sealed in February 2019

Will shut schools if Covid scene worsens: Minister

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

AMID increasing Covid clusters in educational institutions, Primary and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh on Monday said that if required, the government will shut schools and colleges and go back to online classes. "We are monitoring the situation on an hourly basis and there is no need to panic," he added.

Nagesh said that if the situation remains under control, the department is keen on holding exams for primary and high school students as they have lost the habit of writing exams for the last two years. The government will rethink that decision too, if required, he added.

Army tried to hide bodies: Naga govt

'Mistaken identity'

Home Minister Amit Shah on Monday admitted in Parliament that the Nagaland firing was a case of mistaken identity and expressed regret over the civilian killings

Armed Forces (Special Powers) Act gives unbridled powers to security forces. They can visit your house, frisk and arrest people without a warrant. While doing this, if they kill someone, there will be no case. This has to go

Neiphiu Rio, Nagaland CM

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

SPECIAL forces of the Army not only shot dead civilians in a case of mistaken identity in Nagaland's Mon on Saturday, they also tried to hide the bodies under tarpaulin, a report by the state's Director General of Police T John Longkumer and Commissioner Rovilatuo Mor revealed.

A parallel first information report filed on the incident by the police was equally damning. Claiming that the Army did not inform them of the operation against insurgents, it alleged that "it is obvious that the intention of (the) security forces is to murder and injure civilians."

The report of the DGP and the Commissioner said the unarmed civilians were "ambushed and killed by security forces (reportedly 21 Para based in Assam) at random, apparently without any attempt for identification." Six civilians were killed on the spot and two critically injured.

What followed was a cover up attempt by hiding the bodies and possibly taking them to the Army camp. "On hearing the gunshots, the villagers went to the spot being apprehensive that the individuals did not return home from work... They found the pickup truck and the special forces personnel trying to hide the dead bodies...by wrapping and loading them in another pickup truck, apparently with the intention of taking the dead bodies to their base camp." Violence broke out when the villagers found the bodies hidden under a tarpaulin sheet, the report said.

A mass funeral for the victims was slated for Sunday but put off by a day without any clear announcement, which angered the locals and resulted in an attack on an Assam Rifles camp in Mon. Army men firing blanks further enraged the mob. "After almost an hour into the melee, the second round of continuous firing by the Assam Rifles resulted in the mob running for safety and protection. After the firing ceased, one protestor...was confirmed dead on the spot and six others, including one IR personnel, sustained bullet injuries," the report added. P9

900 employees of Better.com sacked on Zoom call

SAMIKSHA GOEL @ New Delhi

CALL it Worse.com if you will. The CEO of US-based firm Better.com, Vishal Garg, laid off 900 employees during a bizarre Zoom call, shocking the company's staff ahead of the festive season.

The sacked employees comprised about 9% of the digital mortgage lender. Reports said the lay-offs are mainly in India and the US, and that the Zoom call lasted just three minutes.

Vishal Garg

"If you're on this call, you are part of the unlucky group being laid off. Your employment here is terminated effective immediately," Garg said in the one-way video call on December 1. An employee filmed the call and leaked it recently on social media.

One of the laid-off workers told this newspaper that they felt cheated and devastated, as the call came out of the blue.

Garg, an abrasive executive, had once called his employees "a bunch of DUMB DOLPHINS" in a staff email.

TechCrunch speculated that the lay-offs may have been a condition for Better.com's backers — which include SoftBank — greenlighting a sooner-than-expected cash infusion of $750 million.

State to ramp up production of Mysuru silk sarees

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

TO meet the growing demand for famous Mysuru Silk sarees, the state government is ramping up production by providing 192 additional power looms to the Karnataka Silk Industries Corporation Limited (KSIC).

KSIC now produces 70,000 metres of silk sarees every month from its power looms and the additional looms will enable it to increase its monthly production to over one lakh metres. "We have set a higher target and the additional looms are being provided to meet the production needs," said Sericulture Minister KC Narayan Gowda on Monday.

The state government also issued an order to repair unused power looms with Karnataka Silk Development Centres in Hassan, Tumakuru, Ballari, Vijayapura and Belagavi and shift them to KSIC facilities in Mysuru and Channapatna. KSIC is a state government enterprise that has obtained the Geographical Indication (GI) tag for Mysore Silk. P7

Varthur farmers want govt to acquire land

Demand compensation as water gushes in to farms located in lake buffer zone due to unscientific tank bund

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

HERE is a farmer who is offering his land to the government to be acquired. B Srinivasan (72), who has farmland around Varthur Lake, is one of many farmers demanding that the government officially acquire their properties and give compensation.

They say their land is no longer fit for cultivation, due to a rise in water level after a tank bund was created on Varthur Lake.

Srinivasan told TNIE, "The tank bund construction is done in an unscientific manner. During the monsoon, rainwater flowing into the lake is obstructed by the tank bund. As a result, land belonging to me and my family gets submerged. This has made the land unfit for agriculture, and is fit for acquisition."

He said his father had purchased 1.15 acres of land in Belegere village, Varthur hobli, on April 25, 1961. The property was divided among the family members after his father's death. The survey numbers are 14/1, 14/2A, 14/2B and 308 in Amani Bellandur Khane. In the Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) Comprehensive Development Plan, 2004, the survey numbers were included in the yellow zone. In 2015, after the Supreme Court order, it became part of the buffer zone.

Srinivasan has submitted a memorandum to the state government, stating that since the designated land use is deemed to have lapsed under Section 69(2) of the Karnataka Town and Country Planning Act, and the act of the government amounts to passive acquisition, it must be acquired by the government and due compensation given.

He is not the only property owner who has approached the government. There are 20 other farmers suffering the same plight, on around 20 acres of land.

BBMP lake engineer Ravi Vijaykumar said water gushes on to their land because it is at a lower level than the lake, and because of insufficient drain capacity. The decision on acquiring the land and giving compensation rests with the government. So far, no order has been issued for land acquisition in such cases, and no compensation given.

A former NGT-constituted committee member explained that under the buffer zone, the government need not acquire land, but should not deprive farmers from undertaking cultivation. As per apex court orders, no development or construction activities should be permitted. The buffer zone is to be maintained by the BBMP.

Kids can attend school even if parents not vaxxed

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA @Bengaluru

THE Education department's dilemma over implementing the double vaccination mandate on parents, to allow their children to attend school offline, has led to Primary and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh allowing kids to go to school even if parents are not fully vaccinated.

The dilemma stems from this: While the state government has made it must for parents to complete two doses of vaccination to allow their children into schools, none of the acts have the provision to empower the government to enforce such a rule.

Nagesh told TNIE, "We cannot force parents unless the government decides that vaccination is compulsory. Throughout the country, we are pressurising people to take the second dose of vaccination. People were not taking it because the situation was not alarming."

Vishal R, Commissioner, Department of Public Instructions, said, "Anything that is made compulsory has to be done through an act or rule, like the Epidemic Act, Disaster Management Act or RTE Act. Do any of these give us overriding powers to punish parents or child?"

Instead of denying education to children because parents are not completely vaxxed, Vishal said they are now looking at measures to educate parents about the need for being double vaccinated. Anganwadi and Asha workers, and teachers, have been given the task of doing that, he said.

Meanwhile, schools are awaiting orders from the Education department to implement the guidelines. "We have not got orders from the department to prevent children from coming to school, although there are government guidelines," said HK Manjunath, President, Karnataka State High School Assistant Masters' Association. However, if schools implement it without a department order, parents are bound to oppose it. "So far, we only have an order saying that cultural activities are prohibited," he said.

Monday saw no change in school attendance in private unaided schools. Shashi Kumar, General Secretary, Associated Management of Primary and Secondary Schools in Karnataka, said, "We have only sent a notice for parents as an advisory (not to not send kids to school if not double vaccinated)," he said.

METRO GETS NOD TO ADD 7 NEW TRAINS

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

THE induction of seven brand new trains in Namma Metro's operations is set to become a reality soon. The Lucknow-based Research, Design and Standards Organisation (RDSO), which conducted extensive tests on these coaches last month, has recently given the green signal for operationalising them, said highly placed Metro officials.

The Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) presently runs 50 trains covering its Phase-I network and two lines of Phase-II. Speaking to The New Indian Express, a source said, "We have received the nod from the RDSO. Certain modifications need to be made in the draft and we will be doing it soon." The BMRCL will next approach the Railway Board through the Commissioner for Metro Rail Safety to get its clearance, he said.

The trains, manufactured by BEML, were being purchased for the Baiyappanahalli-Whitefield line which is likely to be commissioned before the end of 2022. "We are not going to keep the new trains idle until then. We will induct them as soon as possible into our fleet along the East-West and North-South Corridors presently operational," the official said.

A 14-member team from RDSO was in the city from October 10 to October 27 to carry out oscillation and emergency braking trials on the coaches. The trials were completed five days before schedule with trains being run between Sampige Road and Peenya Industry stations between 10 pm and 4.30 am after closure of train operations.

Trains were run empty as well as with sand bags weighing up to 360 tonnes during the trial runs. "The trial runs were smooth. While the starting speed was at 50 kmph, the speed was gradually increased until the trains were run at a maximum speed of 90 kmph," an official had told TNIE.

AAP, residents protest against potholes

ENS @ Bengaluru

OVER a hundred people gathered over the weekend to protest against BBMP's failure to fill potholes across Bengaluru. Members of Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) Bengaluru drove across five constituencies to highlight the issue.

AAP members and residents conducted pujas to potholes. "We go to the temple to pray for protection, now we're praying to the potholes so that they don't injure or kill us," said Mohan Dasari, AAP Bengaluru president.

Potholes claimed the lives of four people over the last few months. The BBMP had announced that those injured in pothole-related accidents would get Rs 15,000, while families of deceased victims would get Rs 3 lakh. "At least three people died in the last few months, but their families have not been given compensation. The administration has not fixed potholes. Where has the money gone," asked Dasari.

The protest started from Krantivira Sangolli Rayanna and went through Gandhinagar, Malleswaram, Rajajinagar and Chickpet, before culminating at Gandhi Bazaar.

MANTRI MALL SHUT OVER PROPERTY TAX DUES

Bengaluru: BBMP on Monday slapped Mantri Mall in Malleswaram with a third notice to pay pending property tax. Agitated by the delay, BBMP West Zone officials closed down the mall and stopped the entry of visitors. BBMP Joint Commissioner (West) Shivaswamy said the mall management has to pay Rs 27 crore in property tax, due since the past four years. "Sufficient notice and time has been given. Now we have decided to close it down till the amount is paid," he said. He added that in the past, each time a notice was issued and the mall would be closed temporarily, the management would make some internal arrangement and pay an amount. In this way, they have paid Rs 5.5 crore. BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta said directions have been issued to the zonal team to take stern action, as tax defaulters will not get any relief, and the matter will be taken very seriously. Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

07th December : We're still in an unusual Lunar phase, which means that energy is erratic, but not as much as it was. I think we'll all be in a different state of mind, though. Some of us will still be lethargic and laid-back. Others will be sensing the energy-boost that is coming in the next few days and should be getting on with the coming stage of life.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Your stars are positive and helpful, though not in the ways you'd normally expect. So, bearing in mind that today's mood is decidedly optimistic, you may feel that the time has come to face up to people who have been placing obstacles in your path. True, they may have meant no harm, yet that is no reason not to make your feelings plain.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Your closest partners have had their day, and it is appropriate for you to call the shots. Business associates are almost certain to want to hold further meetings, but you no longer see any reason why you have to pander to their ridiculous whims. However, you have to be subtle and sensitive, otherwise you'll generate fresh problems.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Partners and close colleagues may be at a loss to understand just what on earth you are up to, such is the speed at which your ideas and plans are changing. Be patient with them if they occasionally stoop to being irritating and argumentative. Turn your attention to health questions, both diet and exercise.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Seen in terms of strict, traditional astrology, your current situation is straightforward, yet I can discern psychological conflicts which may be responsible for piling on the pressure. However, you won't go far wrong if you are motivated by your usual sense of integrity. Postpone decisions for another two weeks if you wish.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Finally you have cause to feel like a round peg in a round hole; today's planetary pattern is one that suits your temperament almost perfectly. Surprisingly, though, the most important factor now may be your social life. However, female relations may try your patience at home this morning.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
I cannot emphasise too highly that the current planetary aspects are remarkable for all those of you who are now vigorously pursuing professional or related ambitions. A very big opportunity indeed is about to drop into your lap. But, and this is a very big but indeed, you must allow a current muddle to clear.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Venus is still in a special relationship to Jupiter, a fact which has magnificent significance for your entire state of being, let alone your emotional life and romantic aspirations. This is, by the way, a superb time to head for adventure, especially if you're on a spiritual path, or trying to rediscover the past.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
The Moon is still offering you a helping hand, guiding you through your personal affairs. In business, you will have little time to reflect on the pros and cons of different paths. Partners are waiting for you to swing into action, and you may have to go ahead without even reaching a firm decision in your own mind.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
If you acknowledge that other people, both colleagues and intimate partners, are right, the better off you'll be. And if you insist on going your own way, shunning offers of help and co-operation, you'll throw your own interests away. There is, incidentally, much to be said for deepening your spiritual awareness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Unless you organise yourself to take advantage of all that is good in your environment right now, you will allow others to step in and waste your time in futile arguments. You should be at nobody's beck and call. Plus, you must be free to turn the clock back if you wish.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Make the most of stunning celestial conditions while they last. With so many planets helping you along your way emotionally, one thing is certain. If events have not turned out as planned it is because you have failed to break a deep negative behaviour pattern, one left over from many years ago.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
The planets are right behind you, so do not flinch from facing the ultimate test. You really ought to be in your element at the moment and may become even more assured and confident as success breeds success. If partners can't make up their minds, don't worry. After all, that will leave you free to take the decisions.

PARENTS, EXPERTS PUSH FOR VACCINATING KIDS

Hospitalisation of children in South Africa a warning, but ICMR wants more trial data on Covaxin, Covishield

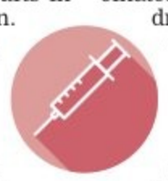
CHETANA BELAGERE
@ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA reported 274 Covid-19 cases among children and teenagers aged 0-19 years, in the past 10 days. With data from South Africa showing that the second highest population to be hospitalised is children, parents and experts are stressing on approval of vaccination for the paediatric population.

On Saturday, the Indian Medical Association demanded that the government expedite the proposal to vaccinate children in the 12-18 year age group, at the earliest.

Dr Srinivasa S, spokesperson for IMA (Bengaluru) and chairperson for the national IMA Standing Committee for Child Health, says, "With fear looming large on Omicron, and the prediction that children will be most vulnerable if there is a third wave, it calls for immediate approval of vaccination for children."

Meanwhile, city doctors are stressing on preventive measures to be taken by adults in households with children.



Dr Jagadish Hiremath, Chairman at Aasra Hospital, says the situation in South Africa is a warning to everyone as there is a high probability of the situation replicating in India, if adults neglect taking necessary preventive measures.

While parents are anxious and pushing for vaccinating children, sources told TNIE, "The Indian Council for Medical Research is not satisfied with trial data by Covaxin and Covishield. It is seeking more data." However, Dr Srikanta J T, Consultant -- Paediatric Interventional Pulmonology and Sleep Medicine, Aster CMI Hospital, says adults around children have to be more careful, and ensure they are double vaccinated. "In South Africa, children under 5 years of age are getting infected from unvaccinated adults. India's seroprevalance in children shows that most have either had an asymptomatic infection that has gone undetected, or had a mild infection."

However, paediatricians said that children are exposed to a great extent as they are going to schools and colleges, leaving them vulnerable.

ADULT VACCINATION

Karnataka has vaccinated 78.74 per cent of its total population with both doses, and is yet to vaccinate about 33.32 lakh people with the first dose, and nearly 1.75 crore people with the second dose.

"The state's Har Ghar Dastak has been doing well, and our healthcare workers are reaching the remotest areas to achieve full target vaccination by the end of this year. We are confident we can do it," Minister for Health and Medical Education Dr Sudhakar said.

The state's statistics show that Kalaburagi, Raichur and Yadgir continue to be problem districts with 56 per cent of the people vaccinated with the second dose, but even here, they have been able to reach only 89 per cent of the target population with the first dose.

Meanwhile, at a meeting with the BBMP commissioner on Monday, the Private Hospitals and Nursing Homes Association (PHANA) requested the government to make it mandatory for patients visiting private hospitals to have a double vaccination certificate. Though patients will not be denied treatment, they will gather information of their vaccination status. "We have suggested this as it will help us achieve vaccination of both doses for at least 80 per cent of people by the end of this year. At present, Bengaluru has vaccinated about 60 per cent of its population. No patient will be denied treatment, though," said PHANA president Prasanna HN.

Meanwhile, the association has also been asked for statistics on unused vaccines which can be handed over to the central government. Private hospitals are said to have about 8 lakh vaccines left, a majority of which is Covaxin.

10-15 samples sent for genome sequencing daily

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IN the wake of fluctuating Covid-19 cases, and Bengaluru being the first city in India to report two Omicron cases, BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta on Monday said that samples of all those coming from high-risk countries and having high virus load are now being sent for genome sequencing.

On an average, 10-15 samples of Covid-19 patients are being sent for genome sequencing every day, Gupta said, adding that Bengaluru tops the list in India in sending samples for analysis. Normally, 5-10 per cent of the samples are sent to four designated laboratories identified and listed by Indian SARS-CoV-2 Genomics Sequencing Consortium (INSACOG), but now, depending on the type of cases, the condition of the patient and those coming from high-risk countries, the samples are being sent for genome sequencing. The samples also depend on contact tracing details. Genome sequencing reports will now be available in 4-5 days, Gupta said. Normally, sample analysis reports take around a week, though earlier, the time lapse was 2-3 weeks. The sample analysis takes time because of the number of tests and assessments which need to be done. However, Covid-19 test results come within a day and this will continue.

He also clarified that there is no specific number of samples being sent for genome sequencing every day, and it depends on case-to-case basis.

DOC WITH OMICRON TESTS POSITIVE AGAIN

CHETANA BELAGERE
@ Bengaluru

THE Bengaluru doctor, who tested positive for the Omicron variant of SARS CoV 2, is still testing Covid-positive even after 15 days of his first test. One of his primary contacts and two secondary contacts have tested negative.

The anaesthetist, who was eagerly waiting for his test reports to be discharged and to go home, will have to continue to stay in isolation at the Bowring Hospital. His samples will be sent again for tests after 24 hours and repeat tests will be done even on those who tested negative on Monday, said a senior doctor. The doctor and his contacts will have to stay at the facility till the reports test negative.

The doctor and his colleagues have normal BP, oxygen levels and other parameters. "The doctor has diabetes and that may be the reason why he is still testing positive. It has happened in many cases with Delta and other variants too. People have tested positive even after 21 days of treatment," he explained. Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said that five contacts of the doctor have no symptoms of the disease and this shows the importance of vaccination. The doctor and his contacts are in isolation and under observation at a government facility over the past week, he added.

NO CABINET EXPANSION FOR NOW, SAYS BOMMAI

'Move only after consulting top brass, focus now on MLC polls, session'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hubballi

HINTING that the state will not see a cabinet expansion in the near future, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday said any initiative in this direction will be taken only after consulting the party's central leadership.

Speculations of a cabinet expansion were rife in the political corridors after former chief minister B S Yediyurappa had recently stated that the ministry will be expanded shortly and that Bommai will take a final decision. Also, Vijayapura City BJP MLA and former Union minister Basanagouda Patil Yatnal had said there will be major changes in the state cabinet after December 10.

Putting all theories to rest, Bommai told the media in Hubballi on Monday that the party's focus will now be on the biennial elections to the Legislative Council for 25 seats on December 10. "Right now, we are busy with MLC polls and thereafter, we have the winter session in Belagavi. As far as ministry expansion is concerned, the future course of action will be based on suggestions from our senior leadership," he added.

The winter session is scheduled to be held from December 14 to 24 at the Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in Belagavi. There are currently 30 ministers in the state cabinet, including the CM, as against the permissible 34.

To a query on a possible alliance between the BJP and JDS ahead of the Council polls, Bommai said it is for JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy to spell out his party's stand. Bommai had recently said it was for former chief ministers from both the parties — Kumaraswamy and Yediyurappa — to take a call on the alliance.

However, the issue still hangs in balance as neither JDS supremo H D Deve Gowda nor Kumaraswamy have made their stand clear. The issue of JDS-BJP alliance came to the fore after Yediyurappa had sought JDS' support in seats where it was not contesting from.

New policy for job-creating industries planned

In Gadag, Bommai said that he is contemplating a new policy to ensure employment generation. Bommai said, "Until now, incentives were offered to investors. But, under the new policy, more facilities will be provided to industries that create more job opportunities." To a query on the summons issued to Mahadayi agitators, he said, "It is a court matter. I have no primary information on the issue. After gathering details, my government will ensure there is no trouble for the protesters."

Sent to Tihar as I didn't back BJP: DKS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Belagavi

KPCC president D K Shivakumar on Monday accused the BJP of indulging in a political witch-hunt and said he was sent to Delhi's Tihar jail for not joining the saffron party.

"I was sent to Tihar because I did not support them," Shivakumar told the media in Belagavi. The Kanakapura MLA was reacting to RDPR Minister KS Eshwarappa's statement as to why he was lodged in Tihar. "I was in Tihar because BJP sent me," Shivakumar quipped. Shivakumar was arrested by the Enforcement Directorate and lodged in Tihar in 2019 on charges of money laundering.

Meanwhile, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai in Hubballi refused to react to Shivakumar's charges. "I need not reply to all his statements," he said.

Hitting out at BJP leader B S Yediyurappa, Shivakumar said, "The innocent Yediyurappa, who is not in a position to blame the BJP for his pain, is making baseless statements against the Congress. He should give vent to his pain, agony and mental harassment."

On the MLC polls in Belagavi, he said it is not a battle between MLAs Ramesh Jarkiholi and Laxmi Hebbalkar, but between two political parties. "Congress workers are working unitedly. There is some difference of opinion on selection of candidates at one place, but it will be resolved. There is some kind of political understanding in the BJP. There is only one stage but campaign speeches are made for two candidates. I am surprised to know that the BJP has become weak. Their party high command has also become helpless in Belagavi," he said, indirectly pointing to the 'adjustment politics' of Ramesh Jarkiholi in the district. Ramesh's brother Lakhan is contesting the election as an independent.

"Attempts are made to defer Belagavi session. If it is postponed, a massive protest will be staged. Flood victims have given a memorandum that they will commit suicide as they have not received any aid from the government. We will raise such issues," he said.

Siddu slams CM on development agenda

BENGALURU: Opposition leader Siddaramaiah has slammed CM Basavaraj Bommai saying, "By repeatedly misrepresenting facts at rallies and election meetings, he has upheld the BJP's 'core values' of lying incessantly. By repeating a lie a hundred times, they want people to believe a lie as the truth." In a series of tweets, Siddaramaiah said, "I had expectations that Bommai would take forward the developmental programmes initiated by our government, but these expectations have been crushed. #Burude Bommai". Drop eggs, bananas from mid-day meal menu, seers urge Bommai

ENS @ Bhalki (Bidar district)

THE seer of the Bhalki Hiremath, Basavasavalinga Pattada Devaru, along with heads of several other mutts, has urged the government to withdraw the order on providing eggs and bananas to students of Classes 1 to 8 under the mid-day meal programme. Instead, uniform nutritious food can be provided, they suggested.

The seer submitted the memorandum to Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai here on Monday, on behalf of the seers of Lingayat mutts in the Kalyana Karnataka region, during the latter's visit to Bhalki for a spiritual discourse by Shri Siddeshwara Swamiji. Basavalinga Pattada Devaru, who read out the memorandum in the presence of the CM, pointed out that Basavadi Sharanas opposed non-vegetarian food and Lingayats, who are a majority community in Kalyana Karnataka, are vegetarians. It is better that all children should be given common vegetarian nutritious food like banana, instead of giving both eggs as well as banana, he said.

The memorandum further said that the previous government had also launched a programme to distribute eggs and bananas and, after the seers opposed it, both were dropped from the menu. The Maharashtra government also launched a programme to distribute eggs and bananas, but dropped it after opposition, he said. The seer said that hundreds of seers have signed the memorandum urging the government to withdraw the order. The CM, who received the memorandum, however did not react.

Students of Classes 1 to 8 are being provided eggs and bananas thrice a week from December 1 as part of mid-day meals.

Siddu my guru, but lied in MLC issue: Ramesh

ENS@ Belagavi

A day after Opposition leader Siddaramaiah lashed out at former minister Ramesh Jarkiholi at a campaign meet at Ramdurg, the latter came out to react to his allegations. While calling Siddaramaiah as his leader and guru, he, however, took potshots at him for "lying" in the case of MLC Vivekrao Patil at a campaign meet.

Speaking at the campaign meeting of Independent candidate Lakhan Jarkiholi in Raibag on Monday, Ramesh said, "Siddaramaiah is our leader even today. He is a tall personality in politics and therefore, I will not speak about him. There is no need to read any different meaning to my words, because I am his fan," he said. "But he lied in the convention on Sunday. He has started uttering more lies nowadays. I don't know under what pressure he is lying," he said.

"Siddaramaiah had said that there is no connection between Vivekrao and Congress. But the truth is, Vivekrao was a Congressman and I had requested Siddaramaiah to give him a ticket during the last MLC polls. Instead, the ticket was given to Veerkumar Patil. Vivekrao contested as Independent and won. Later, Siddaramaiah himself had requested Vivekrao to work in favour of the Congress," he said.

Protect Wakf lands or quit: Manippady to Jolle

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FORMER Karnataka State Minorities Commission chairman and joint spokesperson of state BJP, Anwar Manippady, on Monday sought the resignation of Muzrai, Haj and Wakf Minister Shashikala Jolle if she cannot protect Wakf Board properties. Addressing the media here, he urged the State Government to appoint a retired judge to conduct a probe based on his 2013 report and take the matter to its logical end.

He said the State Government has failed to address the issues of the minorities on all fronts and thus, has failed Prime Minister Narendra Modi's concept of 'Sabka Saath Sabka Vikas'. He also claimed that he had brought this issue to the notice of the PM, Union Home Minister Amit Shah and also to RSS functionary Mukund.

"They attribute lack of funds to take steps to safeguard Wakf properties worth over Rs 2.5 lakh crore. If she cannot protect the properties, she must step down," he said. "The Jagadish Shettar Cabinet approved my report. It was not tabled in the Assembly... Also, no action was taken. When BS Yediyurappa was the CM, he just showed lip sympathy instead of taking action", he rued.

Joint spokesperson of state BJP Anwar Manippady addresses the media in Bengaluru on Monday | EXPRESS

He also attacked both Jolle and Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy accusing them of electing Moulvi Shafi Saadi as the chairman of Wakf Board despite the latter facing corruption charges with regards to the grants he received for the construction of an existing compound of a mosque at Banashankari in Bengaluru. "We got the payment stopped and the case is with the Lokayukta and in the High Court. The Wakf Board and the government are now trying to give it a twist which is also illegal," he added.

He also raised the issues of Wakf properties being mortgaged in Mysuru and even sold off in Kunigal of Tumakuru district.

"Muslims are also being denied burial ground at Doddanagamangala near Bengaluru," he added.

Situation is under control, says minister

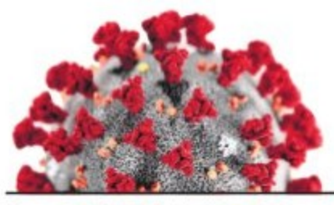
MINISTER B C Nagesh told The New Indian Express that the government is not compromising on the health of students and said that those who tested positive a few days ago are back in schools and colleges.

He maintained that experts are of the opinion that there is no problem in holding regular offline classes. "We are taking all measures and the situation is under control at present," he said.

He asked people not to panic as it will impact the academic activities of children. The department started regular school after a year of lockdown. "If schools are shut again, it will be difficult to bring children back to classes," he pointed out.

As children have forgotten how to write exams, teachers are finding it difficult to instill discipline in them, make them sit inside classrooms and also make them write. Offline exams are needed as children will face difficulty later in higher classes, he pointed out.



19 clusters in schools, colleges

CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru

THE discovery of two Omicron cases in Karnataka, along with a sudden rise in the number of clusters in educational institutions, has created panic among the public and also baffled health officials. Karnataka reported 19 clusters in educational institutions in the past month. As of December 6, the number of infected school students is 130, from clusters in 12 institutions.

"We are trying to genome sequence these samples and also track the source of infection. In the Dharwad cluster, we were worried it could be a new variant as the positivity rate went up to almost 1%, with 312 cases. But it turned out to be the Delta variant. This shows that if people don't follow Covid-appropriate behaviour, breakthrough infections can occur with Delta too," said a doctor from the Technical Advisory Committee. Experts claim that six or seven clusters were reported in nursing colleges, and the team tracked the infection to students and medical professionals who have returned from neighbouring states. Some international schools in Bengaluru and Tier-2 cities also reported clusters. "A majority of the students getting infected are those staying in residential institutions. There is either cohabitation or events have been held in closed spaces. These have been the source of infection in many clusters," said Randeep D, Commissioner, Health.

The highest number of clusters is 16, reported in BBMP limits, and include educational institutions and apartments in Bommanahalli area. In the past two days, Jawahar Navodaya Vidyalaya, Mudipu, Bantwal, has seen 107 students testing positive. This is also a residential school. A total of 871 samples from the clusters, and villages like Koppa, where clusters formed, have been sent for Whole Genome Sequencing, and reports are awaited. Of these, 312 samples tested negative for Omicron.

Council nomination: HC relief for Suraj

Says it won't interefere in electoral process

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IN a huge relief for Suraj Revanna, who is contesting for Council polls from Hassan district, the Karnataka High Court on Monday dismissed a petition seeking directions to reject his nomination papers. Suraj is the son of JDS leader H D Revanna.

Justice M Nagaprasanna dismissed the petition filed by K L Harish, a member of the Kundur Gram Panchayat in Channarayapatna taluk of Hassan district, with an observation that the court cannot interfere with the election process as the calendar of events have already been announced.

However, the petitioner can approach the court with an election petition if there are any lapses in the process in accepting nomination papers, the court added.

The petition claimed that Suraj is not qualified to contest the election in terms of Section 33(A) and 125 (A) of the Representation of People's Act, as he stated in the affidavit filed along with nomination papers that Column No.4 (details of income of family members-spouse) is 'Not Applicable'. But he married Sagarika in 2017 and had deliberately not provided any information about his marital status nor disclosed the assets and liabilities of his wife or dependent, the petition said.

It was also pointed out by the petitioner that Suraj had declared that he is a partner of Chennambika Convention Hall in Holenarasipur but had deliberately suppressed information regarding the operation of the current account.

Though these issues were raised before the District Electoral Officer, they were not considered, the petitioner alleged.

Goods train derails, affects schedules

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

IN a major derailment on the main line between Dodaballapur and Bengaluru on Sunday night, all the eight wheels of two empty wagons of a modified goods train heading to Guwahati went off track. Railway tracks were damaged for nearly 100 metres, said officials. Trains had to run only on one line in the section for nearly 23 hours delaying all schedules.

The accident occurred at 7.33 pm when the 26-wagon New Modified Goods rake entered the main line from the loop line coming from the yard in Dodaballapur.

Wheels on the right side of Wagons 9 and 10 came off the rails and the wheels on the other end landed in the middle of the tracks. "The train has 26 wagons and it was half-loaded with tractor tillers. The sleepers, railing and the signal fittings below the rails were damaged," an official said.

An accident relief van reached the spot by 9.15 pm. "There was no delay on our part but usually 30 to 40 metres of tracks get damaged in derailments. But here, the length of the track damaged was substantial and it was on two lines. It took us considerable time to restore it," he said.

Top railway officials termed it "a minor derailment" and emphasised that no trains were cancelled. Chief Public Relations Officer, South Western Railway, Aneesh Hegde said, "Since a point on main line was involved, down line was affected. Traffic on the line was restored by 6.15 pm on Monday."

Hegde said the Yesvantpur-Bidar Express was delayed by 45 minutes and KSR Bengaluru-New Delhi by 90 minutes.

OPS, EPS get top AIADMK posts

Announce stir against DMK govt on Dec 9

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

AS expected, O Panneerselvam and Edappadi K Palaniswami were on Monday elected unopposed to the top two posts of the AIADMK, as coordinator and joint coordinator, respectively.

"Since only one nomination has been received for the posts of coordinator and joint coordinator and the nomination is in proper form as per the party's bylaws, Panneerselvam and Palaniswami are being declared elected to the above posts unopposed," C Ponnaiyan, one of the election commissioners, announced after the deadline for withdrawal of nominations ended at 4 pm on Monday.

Though Ponnaiyan said many headquarters' office-bearers, district secretaries, former ministers, and others filed nominations in support of Panneerselvam and Palaniswami, he did not give the number of such nominations received.

Just after the announcement, party functionaries and cadres burst firecrackers to celebrate. Later, Panneerselvam and Palaniswami, accompanied by party leaders, visited the memorial of former chief ministers MG Ramachandran and J Jayalalithaa.

Within an hour of assuming charge, the two senior leaders in a joint statement announced state-wide agitations on December 9 against the DMK government, condemning its "lethargic attitude" towards vital issues faced by the people and demanding financial assistance as a Pongal gift to the people. The agitations would be staged at all district headquarters.

The other demands of the AIADMK are, reduced state taxes on petrol and diesel, assistance for rehabilitation of people affected by heavy rains and floods, sufficient compensation to farmers who lost standing crops in the floods, and incentives for sanitation workers. The AIADMK also condemned the decision to shut Amma Mini Clinics, and the rise in prices of essential commodities.

In a statement, both leaders charged the DMK government of ignoring the problems faced by the people and is not keen on fulfilling its electoral promises.

COMMUNITY CONCERN

Attacks on Christians rising: Archbishop

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

EXPRESSING concern over the rising number of attacks on members of the Christian community since October and November, the United Christian Forum said that attacks have increased ever since the Anti-Conversion Bill was proposed.

The United Christian Forum and Association for Protection of Civil Liberties alleged that the number of attacks against Christians in Karnataka is the third highest in the country after Uttar Pradesh and Chhattisgarh.

"Since January, there have been 32 attacks reported on churches in Belagavi, Hubballi, Belur and other areas, with five or six serious cases in the past few weeks. If this can happen without the legislation, imagine what will happen after passing the legislation. The Constitution gives every religion the right to speak about one's faith, and there are enough constitutional safeguards, why do we need a new law?" Archbishop Peter Machado said.

Community numbers at 2.1 pc

He also questioned that if Christians are forcibly converting people to their faith, as alleged, how is it that the community numbers stand at 2.1 per cent. "Bengaluru is an IT-BT hub known for its peaceful and tolerant practices, and is home to a large number of people from different faiths. Why should anyone challenge this peace?" he asked, and went to list instances of attacks against Christians in October and November, in Bengaluru, Udupi, Mangaluru, Belagavi, Chitradurga and Uttar Kannada districts.

Community members will participate in a hunger strike in Belagavi, where the winter session of legislature is to be held.

Writer urges CM not to enact anti-conversion law

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

AT a time when the Karnaraka Government is making all preparations to formulate an anti-conversion law, writer Aravind Malagatti on Monday urged Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai to re-examine the decision.

Speaking at a seminar on the anti-conversion law organised by Dalit Welfare Trust, as part of Dr B R Ambedkar's Mahaparinirvan Day here on Monday, Malagatti claimed that banning conversion will take away the freedom of the downtrodden and marginalised communities.

Stressing that conversion is not a threat, he reiterated that bringing an anti-conversion law would go against the spirit of the Constitution, which granted religious freedom to all citizens. "This imparts freedom of conscience and free practice and propagation of religion, giving freedom to manage religious affairs. The CM has said that forceful conversion would be banned; in that case there is no need to bring a law for it. The CM needs to re-examine the move as bringing such a law would cause conflict and disruption," he suggested.

He said that the RSS and VHP, which are allegedly focusing on Ghar Wapsi, need to think about the unity and oneness of the country.

MGNREGS wages elude K'taka workers

ENS @ Koppal

WITH the Centre yet to release labour component grants of the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme (MGNREGS), lakhs of labourers have been hit for want of wages across the state, sources in the RDPR department said.

The MGNREGS is one of the most ambitious programmes of the Union Government, even from the days of the UPA. It was this scheme which aided migrant labourers returning to the state during the first and second waves of the pandemic.

While labourers rely upon the MGNREGS to make a living, especially during trying times like natural calamities, delay in ensuring wages to them may also affect the BJP, especially in terms of ULB poll prospects, opined political observers here.

In fact, the Koppal Zilla Panchayat has been evolving and implementing novel ways for effective implementation of the MGNREGS, such as gardens in graveyards, home-garden of differently-abled, and one model each for schools and anganwadi buildings under every GP for effective implementation of the scheme.

The Koppal ZP alone owes labour wages to the tune of Rs 10 crore since the last few months. The ZP Chief Executive Officer, Fouzia Tarannum, told TNIE on Monday that labour wages under MGNREGS are due across the state.

GREENS SEE RED OVER STATE GOVT OPPOSING KASTURIRANGAN REPORT

VINCENT D'SOUZA @ Mangaluru

ENVIRONMENTALISTS have strongly condemned Karnataka's decision to oppose the implementation of Kasturirangan report on Western Ghats and have been seriously considering legal remedy to protect the Ecologically Sensitive Zone (ESZ).

Environmentalist Dinesh Holla who is associated with the agitation against Yettinahole project, accused the State government of opposing the Kasturirangan report in order to protect several influential persons who have encroached upon the forests in the Western Ghats to build resorts, homestays and other commercial establishments. Also, he said that the government was worried about the fate of several 'unscientific' projects like Yettinahole and others for which thousands of crores of rupees have already been spent so far.

Holla took serious objection to chief minister Basavaraj Bommai stating that the implementation of Kasturirangan report will affect the livelihoods of thousands of people living in Western Ghats. "It is not the people who will be affected but those who have encroached upon the forest lands for their selfish gains. They have spread all kinds of lies to mislead common people, saying that they will not be allowed to carry out agriculture once the report is implemented. But there is nothing of that sort in the report," he said.

He described the State's opposition to the Kasturirangan report as the defeat of State's people, adding that at least now the people should realise the importance of protecting ecologically sensitive Western Ghats and join hands to press the government to implement the report.

Stating that the landslides and cloudbursts in Kodagu, Chikkamagaluru and Dakshina Kannada and change in rainfall pattern witnessed this year have a direct connection to the massive ecological disturbances caused to Western Ghats, he said its high time that the government and people realise the importance of taking some firm measures to prevent such disasters from repeating in future.

He said he and some like-minded people are planning to consult legal experts in the coming days in order to fight out the case legally. Also, he appealed the people affected by natural disasters and disturbances to the Western Ghats to join hands in their respective places and ensure that resolutions are passed by gram panchayats in order to force the government to implement it.

Tomato, drumstick prices soar in Kerala

KOZHIKODE: Vegetable prices are continuing to break records, thanks to a flood-like situation in neighbouring states, especially Tamil Nadu. On Monday, a kg of drumstick commanded Rs 300 in Kozhikode, registering a two-fold increase, while the all-important tomato struck Rs 100 per kg. In Kerala's capital Thiruvananthapuram, tomato prices touched three digits, while ladies finger, cabbage and beetroot were also dearer.

'K'taka to up saree output'

GOWDA said there is a lot of demand for Mysuru silk sarees in India and abroad and the government is taking measures to increase the production of high-quality silk sarees. "The extra power looms will create more demand for cocoons and farmers will get a good price for their produce. Shifting of power looms will strengthen KSIC and also protect farmers' interests," he said.

At present, KSIC has 159 power looms at Mysuru Old Mill, 60 at Mysuru New Mill and 30 in Channapatna. Once the new looms are set up, the government is thinking of producing silk sarees in two shifts, said a statement issued by the minister's office.

Farmers in Ramanagara, Tumakuru, Kolar and other districts take up sericulture farming. The price of cocoons has gone up since manufacturers of Banaras silk sarees started sourcing the raw material from Karnataka after a central government ban on China silk.

CHEYYERU DELUGE

Search under way to trace those missing

S NAGARAJA RAO @ Kadapa

IT has been 17 days since a deluge left a trail of devastation in the Rajampet region of Kadapa district, and yet the bodies of 13 missing people have not been traced.

During the floods in the Cheyyeru river downstream of the Annamayya project on November 19, a total of 37 people were feared drowned. However, bodies of only 24 victims could be traced, and Search is still on for the missing 13.

Though family members of several missing people have lost hope of finding their dear ones alive, they are anxious about getting back their bodies, while some are also praying to see their kin alive.

Family members of the missing people are still searching for them in the bushes along the Cheyyeru. They are also checking with villages downstream.

Meanwhile, some locals are complaining that there has been no proper response from the officials. When contacted, the officials claimed that they are continuing the search operation for the missing people, but are reluctant to share more details, including those names of those reported to be missing.

Poll panel says state curtailing powers, goes to Karnataka High Court

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE State Election Commission (SEC) moved the Karnataka High Court against the state government for passing the Karnataka Gram Swaraj and Panchayat Raj (Amendment) Act, 2021, which it claimed withdraws its powers to fix the number of seats, carry out the delimitation exercise, fix reservation of seats and constitute the Karnataka Panchayat Raj Delimitation Commission.

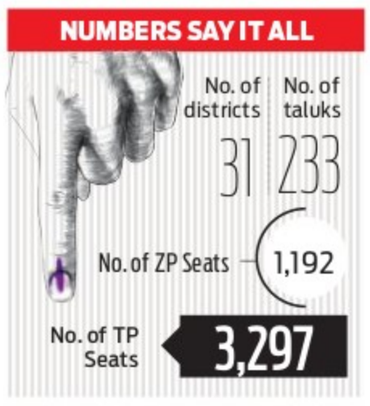
Hearing the petition questioning the legality of the amendment, a division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum on Monday issued notices to the Secretary of the Department of Parliamentary Affairs and Legislation and Principal Secretary of the Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Department.

SEC prayed the court to direct the state government to issue final notifications on delimitation and reservation for all territorial constituencies of all taluk and zilla panchayats in the state.

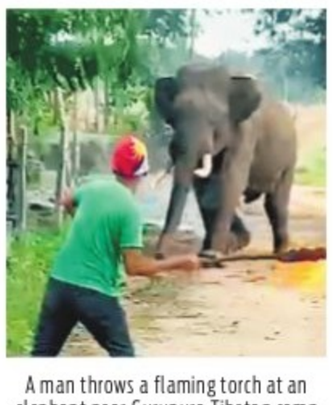
It said that the state government, by proposing to wait till the completion of new delimitation and fresh reservation exercise, has created a vacuum in local self-government and governance of panchayats.

It appealed to the court to declare the Act published in the gazette on September 18, 2021 as unconstitutional.

Transitory provisions under Section 12 of the Act has brought to naught the entire exercise of delimitation and reservation that was carried out and completed by State Election Commission for all taluk and zilla panchayats.



Harassed by locals, wild tusker wreaks havoc



A man throws a flaming torch at an elephant near Gurupura Tibetan camp in the fringes of Nagarahole | EXPRESS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

A wild elephant wreaked havoc on the fringes of Nagarahole Tiger Reserve as it went on the prowl in and around the Gurupura Tibetan camp in Hunsur taluk on Monday.

The tusker which had ventured out of the forest was passing by the Gurupura Tibetan camp. Fear-gripped residents made loud noises to drive it away from the region. A resident even threw a flaming torch at the tusker, which enraged the wild elephant and tried to charge at the residents, but no casualties were reported. Later, vehicular movement was brought to a standstill as it stood strong on the middle of the road scaring motorists. It later uprooted an electric pole which disrupted power supply in the region.

Forest officials rushed to the spot and managed to send the tusker back to the woods.

The video of the incident has gone viral on social media and has even come under fire from wildlife activists, expressing displeasure against the residents for ill-treating and harassing the elephant. A wildlife activist has questioned the need to throw a flame torch on the elephant and urged forest officials to book cases against those who harassed the tusker.

NAGALAND TRAGEDY & THE QUESTIONS THAT REMAIN UNANSWERED

With Union Home Minister Amit Shah's statement in Parliament, it is now officially confirmed that the death of 13 civilians in Mon, Nagaland, on Saturday was the result of mistaken identity. An Army special forces unit ambushed a vehicle carrying some coalmine workers in which six were killed. Hearing the gunshots, nearby villagers gheraoed the Armymen, who fired again, killing seven more civilians.

While the Army has ordered a court of inquiry, the civil police has also filed an FIR and set up an SIT to probe the incident, which Shah said has to complete its report within a month. But the incident and its fallout throw up many questions that remain unanswered. Firstly, why did the Army conduct a covert operation in an area where there has been no active insurgency for years, if not decades? In fact, insurgency in almost all parts of the Northeast, except perhaps Manipur, is largely dormant after the Central government signed ceasefire agreements with most rebel groups in the region and peace talks are underway with all of them. The few groups that have not signed any agreement are Manipur's People's Liberation Army and Assam's Paresh Baruah faction of the ULFA. So the Army statement on Sunday citing credible information of insurgent movement in Mon appears to defy logic as it suggests that insurgents continue to attack, loot and pillage, which is not the case. Secondly, the FIR by the police does not necessarily mean that the guilty Army personnel will be brought to book. The Armed Forces Special Powers Act, 1972, provides protection to the personnel from any prosecution unless it is sanctioned by the Central government. None of the statements by the authorities so far indicates that, if found guilty, sanction will be granted and due process of law will follow. It is not surprising then that at least two chief ministers, Nagaland's Neiphiu Rio and Meghalaya's Conrad Sangma, have called for the law's repeal.

With the government admitting that the ambush was an error of judgement, it must take at least some preliminary action against the personnel involved in order to assuage the anger in Nagaland. A failure to do so will only invite criticism and charges of duplicity.

INFLATION NO LONGER A TRANSITORY RISK

The Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) of the Reserve Bank of India, which is meeting again from Monday to Wednesday to decide on future action, can no longer keep assuming that inflation is a transitory risk. Globally, central banks are fast realising this as inflation keeps creeping up. The average global inflation (as per IMF) in 2021 has increased 110 basis points (bps) to 4.3%, while the same for emerging and developing markets has touched 5.5% during the year. In India, while the inflation has moderated from 6.2% in 2020 to 5.6% in 2021, it is perilously close to the upper limit of the RBI's tolerance level of 6%.

High commodity prices have resulted in manufacturers across the board passing on the price pressure to end consumers. Auto manufacturers have already increased prices two-three times in 2021 and are getting ready for their annual hike in January next year. Maruti Suzuki, the largest car maker in the country, has announced that it is going to hike prices in January. Others will follow suit. Most FMCG companies have already increased prices in November by up to 20% across product categories. Paint companies have also effected price hikes after their second quarter results showed margin pressures. A recent CRISIL Ratings report predicts that input cost will push cement prices to an all-time high of ₹400 a bag. With vegetable prices surging again in November, thanks to untimely rains, inflation numbers of the month won't look as benign as in October (4.48%). And while the inflation was attributed to supply bottlenecks so far, with growth momentum picking up (as is witnessed by the second quarter GDP growth rate of 8.4%), the demand side pressure would increase.

It is, therefore, unlikely that the RBI may be able to hold the rates at these levels for long, at the risk of stoking the inflation further. It will probably have to act sooner than later and address the elephant in the room.

Earlier, when appliances malfunctioned, they were given for repair. But times have changed. The use-and-throw culture has grown globally, contributing to ecological problems

RETURN OF THE REPAIR ECONOMY NEED OF THE HOUR

HARISH BIJOOR

Brand Guru & Founder, Harish Bijoor Consults

SOUMYADIP SINHA

Have you noticed how many of us have seamlessly been sucked into the use-and-throw culture? No, I am not speaking of our relationships with people. That is the subject of an entirely different piece. I speak of our relationship with products that we use, partake of, enjoy and then dispose of when they ostensibly turn inefficient in their delivery. This could be a mobile phone with an irreplaceable battery that is just not keeping pace with current needs or could equally be a pressure cooker that needs to be repaired as its whistle has gone wonky.

Suddenly, many of us are buying products to use for a more limited number of years. And when those years finish, we buy into a new replacement. If you are actually looking to repair and use, you are defined as being part of a generation that does not know what it is doing. Gone are the days when you went around looking for a replacement for the rubber strap of your Hawaii slipper in the by-lanes of T Nagar in Chennai or Himayath Nagar in Hyderabad.

Times have changed. Long ago (but not so long ago that we don't remember), when a mobile phone malfunctioned, we took it to repair. When the washing machine malfunctioned, we called in the repairperson from the service centre. When any device gave a problem, there was a solution. The repairman was at hand. Further still, a refrigerator with a Kelvinator compressor was a point of pride in India. Refrigerators were long-running sturdy machines lasting for 30 years and more. Yes they did!

In many ways, every durable item was really durable. Refrigerators, the Godrej almirah, television sets, air conditioners and other such equipment were made to last and last. Handy day-to-day pieces of kitchen equipment were equally made with durability as the starting point of all product design. The cosmetics came in later. Durability was an attitude and an important product attribute.

But then, manufacturers subliminally started to consciously reduce the lifespan of their offerings. The argument was that people wanted to change things far more frequently than they did in the past. Consumer fatigue with products was a reality. Product design was now even more cosmetic, even at the cost of durability.

Times changed further. Repair folk became pricey, even redundant. Company-owned service centres became rare as organisations outsourced it to middlemen, and spare parts became rarer and more expensive by the day. In many ways, all of this seemed to be a conspiracy of the marketing company at hand. The conspiracy theorists defined it well. Companies want consumers to buy their newer and pricier models all the time. Repair contributed very little to the company and was in fact more of a cost centre than a profit centre of any significance. Repair and service was pricey, non-profitable and redundant to the new generation of consumers on the go.

Things evolved further. In the bargain came the product that just could not be repaired. If you buy an Apple, the options to repair were few and far between. The brand proudly said that its products were so good that they needed no repair. Even if they did, they needed to be done by the company at the back-end, not by the intrepid 'jugaad' repairers of India in the by-lanes and gut of every city. Good companies with dominant brands therefore became ones that discouraged repair. Smartphones were designed smart enough with uni-body models that could not be opened up for repair. And if you were able to open one physically, more often than not there were software locks that just could not be penetrated. Spares were not made available and if they were, they were very expensive. The conspiracy theory on repair and companies that discouraged it is therefore complete to date.

> Companies want consumers to buy their newer and pricier models all the time. Repair and service are pricey and non-profitable. ... In the bargain came the product that just could not be repaired. If you buy an Apple, the options to repair were few and far between

This happy story of the product becoming irreparable after use would have therefore gone on forever. Well nigh nearly, if not for the pressing fact that the ecology of the earth is demanding change. The story of this demand lies in the fact that electronic and material waste is today the world's biggest ecological problem, one that threatens to compound. If we keep using and throwing, the world will become a huge dustbin of the irreparable. Causing irreparable damage to the environment we live in.

As per a report by the Global E-waste Statistics Partnership, the world discards 50 million tonnes of e-waste every year. You can very well imagine what the number could be today. India alone is listed to be number three on the list of e-waste discarders, with an output of 3.23 million tonnes per annum. The US and China occupy the top two dubious positions of course. The sad fact across India, though, is that the informal sector is given the task of handling this waste with its own inefficiencies coming into play. There is very little effort from the formal sector to handle the menace of electronic and electric waste.

What, then, is the solution at hand? A simple, obvious and intuitive answer is one that says discard less, use more, reuse more and recycle even more. The one route to it is the repair mindset. A mindset that needs to come back with a vengeance in the top three discard-nations of the world, India included.

The consumer who buys into anything does certainly have the right of recourse to repair. This recourse must not be obviated by a greedy process that propagates a use-and-throw culture. The burden is a bit too heavy for the earth to bear. The United States, which certainly was the first country to raise and flag this concern as early as in 2003 (within the auto industry that was going through a berserk phase of quick two-year replacements), today has a Digital Right To Repair Coalition (since 2013). Repair is therefore a mindset and a movement in the US. The Federal Trade Commission is active with rampant action against wilful defaulters in the manufacturing and marketing community. We need this to come into India with vigour and passion.

As global marketers incorporate reparability back into their design (Microsoft and Apple included), it is time for every manufacturer in India to think long term, durable and viable for repair and reuse once again. A great way to spur on a repair economy all on its own. Repair in itself is a valuable part of economic activity of a more politically correct world ahead. Let's embrace it with passion.

NARRATIVES AROUND THE BIRTH OF KARTIKEYA

SAURABH SAXENA

Founder of Puratattva, a documentation of heritage sites

The Odisha State Museum in Bhubaneswar has a unique sculpture depicting an event of the birth narrative of Kartikeya. The deityhood of Kartikeya was established during the Epic and Puranic periods as he is only vaguely referred to in the Vedic period. The birth of Kartikeya is of a complex nature and in multiple narratives, Agni, Ganga, Krittikas and Shiva are variously attributed as his parents.

The Mahabharata recounts the birth of Kartikeya at three different places. The first narrative in the Vana Parva mentions that once Agni gets enamoured with the wives of the Saptarishis (seven sages). Being aware of his improper desire, Agni retires to a forest. Svaha, a daughter of Daksha, is in love with Agni and impersonates the wives of the Saptarishis. In her seventh attempt, she fails to impersonate Arundhati, the latter being devoted to her husband. A six-headed boy, Skanda, is born. The six wives of the Saptarishis were blessed as his mothers and they were established as Krittikas (asterism Pleiades). The text then connects the parentage of Skanda with Shiva, equating Agni with Rudra and Rudra with Shiva. The narrative ends with Skanda defeating demon Mahisha.

The Shalya Parva mentions the birth of Kartikeya was to kill the demon Taraka. The retas (energy) of Shiva fell into Agni and the latter was not able to sustain it. Agni passed it to Ganga, however she also failed to sustain it and deposited it on the Himalayas. A child was produced from it and he was nursed by the six Krittikas, and thus called Kartikeya. Later, when the child approaches Shiva, Uma, Agni and Ganga, all wonder whom he would first greet. Kartikeya took three additional forms and greeted them all together. Therefore, he was taken as an offspring of all these deities.

The Anushasana Parva extends the narrative keeping the context of demon Taraka. It mentions once that all the Devatas were terrified about the prospect of the union of Shiva and Uma. It would be catastrophic for the three worlds to sustain its energy. They took a boon from Shiva that he would hold his retas and refrain from having a child. Shiva granted the boon, held his retas and came to be known as urdhvareta. Though Shiva held his retas, some fell to the Earth and into Agni. Agni passed it to Ganga and the latter casted it off in a divine forest of reeds. From it was born Kartikeya, who was later nursed by the Krittikas.

A birth narrative of Kartikeya, in which he is shown with Shashthi (associated with the six Krittikas) and Vishaka, in the Government Museum, Mathura

The Ramayana follows the Anushasana Parva except for making a direct connection between Shiva and Kartikeya. It says that the Devatas ask Brahma for a commander of their army and the latter asks Agni and Ganga to produce a child. Thus, Agni is taken as the main parent of Kartikeya in the Ramayana. Most of the Puranas take Agni as the main character in the birth of Kartikeya. The Vayu Purana mentions that Indra sent Agni to disturb the union of Shiva and Uma. Being disturbed, Uma cursed Agni to carry the fetus bearing Shiva's retas. Agni was unable to carry it for long, so he passed it to Ganga. She deposited it in a forest on the mountain Himavan. From it was born Skanda. The Padma Purana adds that Agni approached Shiva and Uma in disguise as a parrot. As Shiva was obstructed, half of his retas went inside Uma and the rest was drunk by Agni as directed by Shiva. This retas inside Agni came out of his belly, forming a lake. Uma took bath in the lake and drinking its water made her pregnant. As a result, Kartikeya was born out of the right side of her body. The Skanda Purana says that Agni went asking for alms to disturb the divine union of Shiva and Uma. Shiva gave his retas in alms and Agni took it in his palms to consume it. Kalidasa in his Kumarasambhava mentions Agni went in disguise as a pigeon.

All the above indicate the multiple birth narratives of Kartikeya and their evolution. Agni participates as a primary character in most of the earlier versions, suggesting the Vedic influence when he held a prime position. However, in the later versions, Shiva takes a prominent position as the primary parent with Uma as Kartikeya's mother.

Tragic, punish guilty

This is with reference to Encounter goes horribly wrong in Nagaland, 15 civilians killed (Dec 6). It is extremely tragic. Whatever be the reasons for such an unimaginable misunderstanding by troops in Nagaland engaged in combing operations against insurgent activities, the leader of the security forces should have been extra vigilant before issuing orders to fire. The Central and state governments should compensate the bereaved families adequately and book any soldiers found guilty. However, most would have been doing their job sincerely, believing they were attacking insurgents. Sadly the whole operation went awry.

K Nehru Patnaik, Visakhapatnam

Grave error in Nagaland

A grave error of mistaken identity by defence personnel resulted in the death of six civilians who were returning home from a coal mine. As the enraged locals attacked the security forces with machetes and spears, the security forces again opened fire, resulting in more deaths. This is undoubtedly an unfortunate event that will give more teeth to rebels who signed a ceasefire agreement with the Centre over two decades ago.

K V Raghuram, Wayanad

Absence of empathy

The present government may have made political inroads into the Northeast but when it comes to handling the region's problems, it has miserably failed. Empowering an Army with extraordinary powers without empathy can turn into disaster in the long run.

N Nagarajan, Secunderabad

Revamp intel gathering

The situation is now volatile and every effort should be made to douse the fire of anger by delivering justice to the victims and the opposition should not try to gain political mileage from the tragedy. The incident shows that there were serious lapses and it was a case of intelligence failure. The security forces need to revisit and revamp the intelligence gathering mechanism.

K R Jayaprakash Rao, Mysuru

India's move commendable

This is with reference to Indian wheat to feed Afghans on the brink of starvation (Dec 6). The Taliban, which used terror at the prodding of Pakistan to come to power in Afghanistan, has become helpless in the fight against hunger. The Indian gesture to send 50,000 tonnes of wheat and life-saving medicines is commendable and highlights the country's dharma of tolerance.

Rajakumar Arulanandham, Palayamkottai

Ashwin an integral part

The just-concluded cricket matches against New Zealand at home simply underscored that offspinner R Ashwin is an integral part of Team India across formats. His winning the Player of the Series award for the Tests was only in the fitness of things. The series once again showed that senior players Virat Kohli, Cheteshwar Pujara and Ajinkya Rahane continue to be woefully out of form. The selectors however may be facing an embarrassment of riches while choosing batters for the opening slot for the upcoming South Africa tour.

Nagaland firing was case of mistaken identity: Shah

Minister tells Parliament that SIT will probe the firing in a month

SANA SHAKIL @ New Delhi

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah on Monday admitted in Parliament that the firing incident in Nagaland was a case of "mistaken identity" and expressed regret over the "unfortunate" incident in which 13 civilians were killed by security forces.

Shah said all agencies have been directed to ensure that such incidents are not repeated in future.

Hoping to calm down nerves in Nagaland, Shah told the Lok Sabha and the Rajya Sabha that the incident was being probed at the highest level and a time-bound investigation into the incident will be ensured. "It was a case of mistaken identity. The Government of India sincerely regrets this unfortunate incident in Nagaland and expresses its deepest condolences to the families of those who have lost their lives. An SIT has been directed to complete the probe within one month."

Recalling how the incident unfolded on Saturday evening, Shah said an ambush was laid in the "suspected area" in Mon district by the Army on the basis of intelligence inputs that insurgents were present in the area. During the ambush, a vehicle approached the location and it was signaled to stop but the vehicle tried to flee, following which the para-commandos started firing, Shah said.

> The government sincerely regrets this unfortunate incident and offers its deepest condolences to the families of those who have lost lives
> Amit Shah, Union home minister

The minister said it was the initial firing which resulted in killing of six out of eight persons travelling in the vehicle.

The news spread and local villagers surrounded the Army team, burnt two vehicles and assaulted them resulting in death of one security personnel and injuries to several others. "Security forces had to resort to firing in self-defence. This caused the death of seven more civilians," he added.

An agitated crowd vandalised an army base in Mon on December 5 resulting in the death of one more civilian, Shah added.

NHRC notice to Centre, state

The NHRC asked the Centre and the Nagaland government to file a detailed report within six weeks over the Mon killings. The Commission said it has taken suo-motu cognisance of the case which has been described as a case of 'mistaken identity'. It is incumbent upon security forces ensuring proper precaution with a humane approach even if it involved militants, it added.

Cong delegation to visit state

A four-member Congress delegation will visit Nagaland to report on the killing of civilians during army operation and violent incidents in the past week. The delegation consists of Congress leaders Jitendra Singh, Dr Ajoy Kumar, Gaurav Gogoi and Anto Antony. After its inspection, the yeam will submit its report to interim party chief Sonia Gandhi within a week.

'GIVING HIGHEST MSP TO FARMERS'

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

THE best farming practices and outstanding achievements of farmers and organisations working in the field of agriculture were recognised and awarded at the 'Kisan Summit & Awards', organised by The New Indian Express in collaboration with the Chhattisgarh government in Raipur.

At the event, it was highlighted how these agriculture practices have transformed the state's rural economy.

The New Indian Express Group Editorial Director Prabhu Chawla took the opportunity to critically examine the policies of the Congress government during 'Sachchi Baat with CM'. A self-assured Bhupesh Baghel responded to each question with ease.

While deliberating on the issue of agriculture, related challenges and the way forward, the CM said the increase in the net sown area along with the growing strength of farmers during the last three years suggests that farming is now seen as a "profitable profession".

Baghel regretted that it's only the farmer who cannot decide the rate of his produce while every manufactured product has the MRP fixed by the owner of the company.

Listing his government's moves aimed at benefitting farmers, Baghel said "despite the Centre's non-cooperation, the state government always keeps its promise". Chhattisgarh is offering the highest MSP of ₹2,500 per quintal on paddy procurement. Also, it is the only state where 52 types of minor forest produce are bought at the support price benefitting forest dwellers and forest produce collectors, he asserted.

The state also has the Millet Mission initiative to give the farmers the right price for small cereal crops. "We are the only state to offer MSP on Kodo, Kutki and Ragi," he added. Besides, the government has increased the procurement limit from last year's 92 to 105 lakh metric ton this year, he said.

Baghel also talked about how his government's Gauthan initiative has bolstered the rural economy, turned it sustainable through village-centric collective action and also empowered women by linking them to livelihood-based activities.

The CM honoured five progressive farmers for best practices in various fields — Leelaram Sahu (farming produce), Waheeda Begum (dairy farming), Vijay Mandavi (water conservation effort), Khedu Banjara (organic farmer), Abhishek Chawda (horticulture produce) — and two organisations for their innovation—Indira Gandhi Agriculture University for most innovative App, e-Haat, and Krishi Vigyan Kendra in Koriya district for best agriculture research. The others to be felicitated were a women farmers' company, Bhumgadi Mahila Krishak Producer, for best marketing produce and three self-help groups (SHGs) — Gramya Shri Mahila SHG, Sukma (poultry farming), Hirri SHG, Raigarh (manure production) and Haribol SHG (forest produce).

Influential student outfit calls for 7-day mourning

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Guwahati

THE Konyak Naga Students' Union declared seven days of mourning and non-cooperation with the Indian military in protest against the Mon encounter.

"Within these seven days of mourning, there should be no movement of military forces or patrolling parties," it said, adding that the forces would be held responsible for any untoward incident that might arise if the decision was not abided by.

Earlier, the union and the Eastern Nagaland People's Organisation had resolved that December 4 and 5 would be observed as 'Black Day'.

Apart from the relocation of 37th Assam Rifles from Mon district and the repeal of the AFSPA, the union also demanded that action taken against the erring personnel must be put into the public domain within a month.

Another student outfit, Naga Students' Federation (NSF), has requested tribals not to participate in any celebration during the period.

For the second day on Monday, defence personnel had to face the wrath of the public. In Kohima and Dimapur, the convoys of two senior Army and Assam Rifles officials were blocked by the protestors.

A six-hour shutdown called by NSF passed off peacefully, barring minor skirmishes between students and security forces. "The sole purpose of this bandh was to display our grief, our anger and our sentiments ... Naga people are free people and we have every right to defend what we have," it said while urging the government to cancel the remaining days of Hornbill festival as a mark of solidarity.

Nagaland, Meghalaya CMs want AFSPA out

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

NAGALAND Chief Minister Neiphiu Rio and his Meghalaya counterpart Conrad K Sangma demanded repeal of the controversial Armed Forces (Special Powers) Act (AFSPA) on Monday.

Rio said the human rights bodies were debating the contentious Act. "AFSPA gives unbridled powers to the security forces. They can visit your house, conduct frisking and arrest people without a warrant. While doing this, if they kill someone, there won't be any case. That is AFSPA," he said in Mon.

> Neiphiu Rio, Nagaland CM

The world had criticised India saying it was not right for the biggest democracy to have this Act, he said. "They are demanding it is repealed. As you demanded, I also say that this has to go."

He lamented that AFSPA was not repealed even after 25 years since the ceasefire agreement was signed and the resultant peaceful atmosphere in the state. "The Naga movement is going on even after we attained statehood. Till the Naga political issue is resolved, they (the Centre) cannot repeal it. They say this when Himanta (Assam CM) and I argue on this."

He criticised the Centre for extending the disturbed area tag on Nagaland every year. "Even if the state writes to the Centre stating Nagaland is no longer a disturbed state, Delhi extends the period of disturbed area tag," the CM said.

While Sangma tweeted demanding the repeal of the AFSPA, the Arunachal Pradesh unit of his National People's Party also put up the same demand.

Meanwhile, Rio said the Army had, for the first time, admitted it made a mistake by killing innocent civilians. "I spoke to the GOC of 3 Corps. For the first time, the Army issued a statement stating that it made a mistake."

He said his government, along with various organisations, would pursue the case for justice. "Our innocent brothers were killed by the Army. They did not commit any wrong or sin. We will never forget them," the CM said. "I came to Mon happily in the past but today I am anguished as our innocent brothers have been killed."

Oppn not to yield before govt, keep taking up suspension of twelve MPs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

Opposition MPs with their 12 suspended colleagues at Parliament | SHEKHAR YADAV

THE Opposition on Monday decided to take up the suspension of 12 Rajya Sabha MPs with the government even as the Upper House of Parliament witnessing repeated adjournments and it could not take up the listed discussion on price rise.

Non-BJP parties held a meeting at the chamber of Leader of Opposition Mallikarjun Kharge where it was decided that they should press for revocation of suspension of MPs.

Sources said at the meeting, the Congress was of the view that they should participate in discussion on price rise as it is directly linked to people but the DMK, the RJD and others were of the view that suspension of MPs is important for it violated all rules and procedures.

The 12 MPs continue to sit in front of the Gandhi statue in Parliament to protest their suspension but the Centre insists that either they should apologise or Kharge condemn their act inside the House.

While Kharge said that it was shameful that the MPs have been suspended, Leader of the House Piyush Goyal said that the Opposition was running away from discussion and was disrupting the house

TMC MP Derek O'Brien said this situation of suspending 12 MPs is abnormal and normalcy cannot return to the House unless this is resolved.

On the government's demand for an apology to the house, O'Brien said: "Let the PM come and express regrets first for robbing members' rights by bull dozing these bills. Government is accountable to Parliament and Parliament is accountable to the people, but Modi-Shah is subverting it."

The opposition MPs were in the Well of the House when Union home minister Amit Shah read out a statement on Nagaland killings. The House was adjourned for the day immediately after Shah presented his statement on the unfortunate civilian killings that took place in Nagaland.

DMK MP Tiruchy Siva contended that the Opposition was not running away for genuine issues. "The Lok Sabha is functioning and every party has members in the Lower House also. We are raising the issues there," he said.

Tharoor says no to show in protest

Congress MP Shashi Tharoor said he would not host a talk show for Sansad TV until the suspension of 12 Rajya Sabha members was revoked. Continuing to host the show would make him complicit in the undemocratic manner in which Parliamentary institutions were being run, he added. Accusing the Sansad TV of being part of the problem, Tharoor said that cameras focus on the members of the Treasury benches while ignoring the Opposition.

Retrospective clause criticised

The Opposition strongly opposed the introduction of the Narcotic Drugs and psychotropic substances (Amendment) Bill, saying that the retrospective penal clause is against the rule of law. The Bill is an example of "bad drafting" of the legislative proposal, it said. RSP MP N K Premchandran said the Bill violates fundamental rights since it seeks to punish offences committed at times when no such law existed. BJD MP Bhartruhari Mahatab also opposed the Bill.

IRIGC-M&MTC is one of the two intergovernmental commissions with the other one on trade, economic, scientific, technological and cultural cooperation.

Rajnath termed Russia as India's long-standing special and privileged strategic partner and appreciated Moscow's strong support for Delhi. He called defence cooperation as one of the most important pillars of the bilateral partnership.

Beneficiares wait for their turn to get Covid vaccine in Jalandhar | PTI

AN expert panel on immunisation, which met on Monday to discuss additional doses of Covid vaccine for the vulnerable group of population and starting shots for children, decided not to send any recommendations to the health ministry yet, sources said.

The National Technical Advisory Group on Immunisation debated on the need of additional doses for groups such as transplant patients and immune-compromised but felt that more evidence is needed to recommend the third dose for them.

Officials had earlier clarified that while a booster dose is given to an individual after a predefined period when the immune response due to the primary vaccination is presumed to have reduced, additional doses are for those with low immunity when the primary schedule of vaccination does not provide adequate protection.

Meanwhile, the Indian Medical Association demanded booster doses for healthcare and frontline workers amid the Omicron scare.

Some vaccine manufacturers have already started laboratory testings to ascertain if their jabs are effective against the Omicron variant and develop new shots, if needed. Another group is also seeking additional regulatory approvals for booster doses.

27% OBC quota in Maha civic body elections stayed

SC says ordinance for reservation violates norms; nomination process was to end today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

IN a setback for Maharashtra government, the Supreme Court on Monday stayed the 27 per cent reservation for the Other Backward Classes (OBC) in local body elections in the state until further orders.

A bench comprising Justices AM Khanwilkar and CT Ravikumar passed the order on petitions challenging the Maharashtra ordinance which introduced 27 per cent OBC quota in local body elections and the consequent notifications by the State Election Commission to give effect to the same.

The bench ordered that the State Election Commission can't be permitted to proceed with the poll programme already notified in respect of OBC reservation category. The bench, however, made it clear that election process for the other seats would continue.

During the hearing on the plea, the counsel appearing for the State Election Commission said that local body election has been notified and the nomination process will be closed on Tuesday. "We will stay only the 27 per cent election, rest of the election will continue," the apex court said.

The bench observed that the 27 per cent OBC quota should not have been implemented without setting up a commission and without collecting data regarding inadequacy of representation in local governments.

The apex court also ordered that the poll panel should not notify the reserved seats in the OBC category for any mid-term or other general elections till further orders.

The Supreme Court said the Maharashtra government brought the ordinance without following the triple tests. The triple tests are - Establish a commission to conduct empirical inquiry into the nature and implications of the backwardness qua local bodies, within the state; specify the proportion of reservation to be provisioned local body wise in light of recommendations of the commission; in any case such reservation shall not exceed aggregate of 50 per cent of the total seats reserved in favour of SCs/STs/OBCs taken together.

Mayawati confident of absolute majority in UP

Mayawati pays tribute to Dr Ambedkar on his death anniversary on Monday | PTI

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

EXUDING confidence that her Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) would come back to power in Uttar Pradesh with an "absolute majority" after the 2022 Assembly polls, party chief Mayawati launched an indirect attack on Samajwadi Party (SP) saying that even before achieving victory, it was taking out Vijay Rath Yatra.

"With an 'absolute majority' the BSP would form government in Uttar Pradesh, stronger than it was after winning with a clear majority in 2007," said Mayawati while interacting with media persons after paying tribute to Dr BR Ambedkar on his 65th death anniversary here on Monday.

The BSP supremo said the only remedy for governments not running according to the Constitution was to throw them out of power. Mayawati claimed that taking to streets would be of no use.

"Only changing the power will do. When there is a change of power, the Constitution will be saved. People who are opposed to Babasaheb Ambedkar's (ideas) are in power then what will we do by taking to the streets?" she asked.

Launching an attack on the Akhilesh-led SP and cautioning the electorate against it, Mayawati said people knew that during Akhilesh's regime, hooliganism and mafia were at peak. "People are not going to get bullied by them this time," said the BSP chief.

Sharing her party's poll plan for two other states, Mayawati said: "In Uttarakhand the BSP will contest all the seats on its own and in Punjab in alliance with the Shiromani Akali Dal."

The former chief minister also accused the ruling BJP and other parties of not giving Scheduled Castes the full benefits of their legal rights enshrined in the Constitution.

While flaying the saffron party, Mayawati said the state and central governments didn't do enough to save the downtrodden from the atrocities faced by them.

AZAMGARH WAS 'ATANKGARH' DURING SAMAJWADI RULE: YOGI

Lucknow: Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath on Monday took jibe at the previous Samajwadi Party-led government in Uttar Pradesh saying that the then chief minister Akhilesh Yadav made Azamgarh "a stronghold of criminals" during his tenure. Adityanath's remarks came at the inauguration of 37 developmental projects worth ₹122.43 crore in Azamgarh district. The chief minister said that by making Azamgarh, "Atankgarh (a terror hub)", the SP created a "crisis of identity" for the youth of the district. "When professional criminals and mafia lived here, there used to be fear in the minds of poor and businessmen," he said. It may be noted that SP chief Akhilesh Yadav represents Azamgarh in Lok Sabha. Adityanath also took jibe at Akhilesh for opposing Covid-19 vaccine and calling it the "vaccine of BJP". ENS

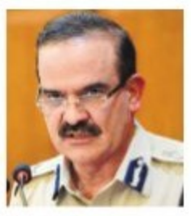
Don't charge-sheet Param Bir: SC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday asked the Maharashtra Police not to file any charge sheet in the cases against former Mumbai police commissioner Param Bir Singh but allowed it to continue probing the matters. Further, the court asked the CBI to respond on Singh's plea for transfer of probe in the ongoing cases.

A bench headed by Justice S K Kaul also extended relief granted to him and restrained his arrest and observed that what it could gather from the submissions of the state is that some other agency should probe the cases.

The bench has sought the CBI's response on Singh's prayer that the investigation in the cases should be entrusted to the central agency as these were linked to matters already under the CBI lens.



In his plea, Singh has challenged the September 16 Bombay High Court order dismissing his petition against two preliminary inquiries against him by the state government for allegedly violating service rules and over corruption charges.

The former Mumbai top cop is facing allegations of running an extortion racket along with dismissed assistant police inspector Sachin Vaze.

Senior advocate Darius Khambatta, representing Maharashtra government, submitted that Singh's petition is not maintainable as it is a service dispute, which should be contested before the Central Administrative Tribunal.

Senior advocate Puneet Bali, appearing for Singh, told the bench that the Maharashtra government was acting with mala-fides.

Pandemic pushes count of malnourished kids in Bengal's backward dists

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

THE number of children suffering from malnutrition in West Bengal has increased twofold owing to closure of Integrated Child Development Scheme (ICDS) centres amid the Covid-19 pandemic, revealed a survey conducted by the state government. The survey, conducted across the state in September, found that 6.7 lakh children were malnourished. The figure was 3.5 lakh in August last year.

There are two categories to measure children with malnutrition—severe and moderate. "According to the recent survey report, 18,162 children are suffering from severe malnutrition and 6.52 lakh children with moderate malnutrition. The total number of malnourished children has doubled," said an official quoting the survey of women and child development and social welfare department.

West Bengal has 1,17,120 ICDS centres which cater to 73.45 lakh children till age six. The centres also take care of pregnant and lactating mothers. The ICDS centres play a key role in rural Bengal's healthcare system.

The state government has come up with several initiatives to reach out to malnourished children with nutritious food and has instructed district magistrates to initiate special measures focusing on children with malnutrition.

"Most of the malnourished children are from poor families living in remote pockets. Significant number of malnourished children was reported from districts like Purulia, West Midnapore, Jhargram and Bankura, which are known as backward regions of the state," said the official.

Another official said that other than closure of ICDS centres, lack of jobs during lockdown also played a crucial role in doubling the number of malnourished children.

Slain youth's dad reiterates return of body

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

WITH authorities not handing over the body of his son killed in the Hyderpora encounter for last rites, the father of slain youth asked why the Jammu and Kashmir administration was providing police protection to his home if his son was indeed a militant as per the claims of security forces.

Abdul Lateef Magray, father of Amir Magray who was among the four persons killed in the November 15 encounter, told this newspaper that his son was innocent. "My son was not a militant. He had been working as an office boy in Dr Mudasir Gul's office," he said. Dr Gul was also killed in the encounter and the body was handed over to his family.

Alleging that his son was killed "intentionally" by policemen for getting "rewards", he said, "They are lying that my son is a militant. Had my son been a militant, why would we have fought to prove his innocence? Why would we have demanded an inquiry?"

According to Lateef, his home in Famrote hamlet of Ramban district is still being guarded by policemen.

Modi, Shah, Sonia took Covid test, jab in Bihar!

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi, Home Minister Amit Shah, Congress president Sonia Gandhi and actress Priyanka Chopra have visited primary health centres in Bihar's Arwal district for RT-PCR test and Covid-19 vaccination!

Don't be surprised. The list of those whose RT-PCR test was conducted in this south Bihar district contained the names of other VIPs as well. However, it is altogether a different matter that they have been shown to be residents of different villages under Puran panchayat of Karpi block in Maoist-affected Arwal district.

Arwal district magistrate J Priyadarshini on Monday ordered a detailed investigation. "This is a very serious matter and I have ordered to lodge an FIR against the erring employees for the lapses on their part," she said.

The DM revealed that the contract of two data entry operators posted at the additional primary health centre in Shahar Telpa and the community health centre in Karpi has been terminated.

The DM also ordered a review of the list of beneficiaries of the test conducted at other primary health centres as well. "How such a glaring negligence took place is subject to investigation. This can't happen only at the lower level," she said.

Though the irregularities were detected on October 27, the matter remained under wraps for over two months.

Sources said the mistakes came to light when the data entry operators were removed two days back. One of the operators, Vinay Kumar said, "I was pressured by the health manager and others to make entries of the beneficiaries without proper names and addresses. This has been done at the behest of the health manager concerned."

"No person by the names of Narendra Modi or Amit Shah were found at Puran or Dorha villages as mentioned in the list of beneficiaries," said an investigating officer.

Surprisingly, all top officers of the state health department were tightlipped. Even Health Minister Mandal Pandey avoided phone calls.

'VIP NUMBERS' BELONGED TO LOCALS

The mobile number mentioned in the name of Narendra Modi was found to be that of a resident of Buxar district. Similarly, the 'mobile number' of Priyanka Chopra was in the possession of a resident of Parasi village in Arwal district

Suu Kyi sentenced to 2 yrs in prison

YANGON

AUNG San Suu Kyi, the civilian leader of Myanmar who was ousted in a de facto coup this year, was convicted on two charges on Monday and handed a four-year sentence that was quickly cut in half — in proceedings widely criticised as a further effort by the country's military rulers to roll back the democratic gains of recent years.

They serve to cement a dramatic reversal of fortunes for the Nobel Peace laureate, who spent 15 years under house arrest for resisting the Southeast Asian nation's generals but then agreed to work alongside them when they promised to usher in democratic rule.

Monday's verdict was the first in a series of cases brought against 76-year-old Suu Kyi since her arrest on February 1, the day the army seized power and prevented her National League for Democracy party starting a second term in office.

If found guilty of all the charges she faces, Suu Kyi could be sentenced to more than 100 years in prison. She is being held by the military at an unknown location — and state television reported that she would serve her sentence there. That sentence was reduced hours after it was handed down in what the report said was an amnesty ordered by the country's military leader, Senior General Min Aung Hlaing.

The court earlier offered a 10-month reduction in the sentence for time served, according to a legal official, who relayed the verdict to The Associated Press and who insisted on anonymity for fear of being punished by the authorities.

The state TV report did not mention any credit for time served. The army seized power claiming massive voting fraud in the November 2020 election, which Suu Kyi's party won in a landslide. Independent election observers did not detect any major irregularities.

Opposition to the takeover sprang up almost immediately and remains strong, with armed resistance spreading after the military's violent crackdown on peaceful protests. Monday's verdicts could inflame tensions even further.

The cases against Suu Kyi are widely seen as contrived to discredit her and keep her from running in the next election.

The United States joined others in calling for the release of Suu Kyi and others who are detained. "The regime's continued disregard for the rule of law and its widespread use of violence against the Burmese people underscore the urgency of restoring Burma's path to democracy," Secretary of State Antony Blinken said in a statement. AP

Xi seeks tighter control over religion to boost state security

BEIJING

CHINESE President Xi Jinping has called for further measures to tighten the state's control over religious affairs in the country, including the 'sinicisation' of faiths which broadly means bringing them in line with the policies of the ruling Communist Party.

An official white paper released in 2019 said China has about 200 million believers — majority were Buddhists in Tibet. Others included 20 million Muslims, 38 million Protestant Christians and 6 million Catholic Christians; besides 140,000 places of worship.

Xi, 68, head of the Communist Party of China (CPC), the powerful military and the Presidency and widely expected to remain in power for life, has been calling for 'sinicization' of religions, re-orienting them to function under the guidance of the CPC which ideologically remains atheist.

"It is necessary to improve the democratic supervision of religious leaders, and push for the rule of law in religious work, and carry out in-depth publicity and education about the rule of law," Xi told a national conference on work related to religious affairs held during the weekend here.

The conference, attended by the country's top leadership, was the first since 2016 and sets the parameters on China's religious affairs and their regulation over the next few years, according to experts.

In his address, Xi said China will further promote 'sinicisation of religion', with a focus on strengthening control of online religious affairs, pointing out that it is imperative to uphold the principle of developing religions in the Chinese context, state-run Xinhua news agency reported.

The party's policy on freedom of religious belief should be fully and faithfully implemented and religious groups should stand as a bridge and a bond connecting the party and the government with people from religious circles and the vast religious believers, he said.

The meeting took place in the backdrop of widespread accusations of repressive control on Muslims and Christians in China, as well as the country's increasing tight supervision over religions, the Hong Kong-based South China Morning Post reported.

Last month, China was among several nations designated by the US as 'countries of particular concern' for violations of religious freedom.

Also, China is accused of following repressive religious policies amounting to genocide against Uyghur Muslims in the restive Xinjiang province.

The CPC apprehends foreign religions, especially Christianity, fearing subversion of its rule, like in Poland where the Church movement was instrumental in overthrowing Communist rule in 1989. PTI

Pak prioritises economic projects in new security policy

Islamabad: Pakistan in its new National Security Policy aims to give top priority to economic projects, placing it at the center of all discourse, amidst recent concerns from Beijing regarding the safety of Chinese workers building the ambitious bilateral trade corridor. The Parliamentary Committee on National Security met under the Chairmanship of Speaker National Assembly Asad Qaiser in Parliament House on Monday for a briefing on the new National Security Policy. Explaining the initial plans, National Security Adviser Moeed Yusuf said the National Security Policy is "designed to leverage the symbiotic relationship between human security, economic security and military security with the prosperity and safety of citizens as its principal focus". He further informed that it "endeavours to put economic security at the core of policy".

US announces diplomatic boycott of Winter Oly citing China's rights record

WASHINGTON

THE United States on Monday announced a diplomatic boycott of the 2022 Beijing Winter Olympics citing human rights abuses, in a move that will not stop US athletes from competing.

"The Biden administration will not send any diplomatic or official representation to the Beijing 2022 Winter Olympics and Paralympic Games given the PRC's (People's Republic of China) ongoing genocide and crimes against humanity in Xinjiang and other human rights abuses," White House Press Secretary Jen Psaki said.

"The athletes on Team USA have our full support. We will be behind them 100 per cent as we cheer them on from home."

"US diplomatic or official representation would treat these games as business as usual in the face of the PRC's egregious human rights abuses and atrocities in Xinjiang, and we simply can't do that," Psaki told reporters.

Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesperson Zhao Lijian accused US politicians of grandstanding over the issue of not sending dignitaries to attend events that China hopes will showcase its economic development and technological prowess. Speaking to reporters at a daily briefing, Zhao said such a move would be an "outright political provocation," but gave no details on how China might retaliate.

"Without being invited, American politicians keep hyping the so-called diplomatic boycott of the Beijing Winter Olympics, which is purely wishful thinking and grandstanding," Zhao told reporters at a daily briefing.

Australia, whose ties with China have nosedived over a range of disputes, has also raised the possibility of a diplomatic boycott. Agencies

Violence amid rally by French far-right leader

PARIS

FRENCH prosecutors said on Monday they would investigate violent incidents at a campaign rally by far-right pundit Eric Zemmour who himself was assaulted as he attempted to take the stage.

Fighting also broke out shortly after Zemmour began speaking Sunday night at a venue outside Paris, as supporters tackled protesters who stood up wearing T-shirts saying "No to Racism." Several people were detained by police during the rally, including a man who grabbed Zemmour violently and injured his wrist, according to his campaign team. Security guards were able to remove the protesters and restore calm after around 10 minutes.

A crew from the popular and sharp-tongued nightly TV news show Quotidien was also booed and briefly removed by security, with hostility to the media a theme of Zemmour's and other speeches at the event.

Authorities had been on high alert ahead of the meeting that marked Zemmour's official campaign launch after far-left activists and anarchists disrupted a trip by Zemmour to Marseille in late November.

Riot police had massed outside the arena in the Paris suburb of Villepinte and searched people's bags as they arrived.

In Paris, a few hundred people marched to protest against his candidacy. AFP

'China seeking to set up its first Atlantic base'

WASHINGTON

CHINA is looking to set up a permanent military base in Equatorial Guinea, The Wall Street Journal reported quoting US intelligence sources.

The findings have set off alarm bells inside the White House and the Pentagon, as a military base on the Atlantic coast would allow China to station its warships closer to the US east coast.

In recent months, the US has tried hard to persuade Equatorial Guinea to reject Chinese overtures.

The Biden administration sent a senior diplomat to the country in October with a clear message that the US is concerned about the Chinese activities in the country. "We have made clear to Equatorial Guinea that certain potential steps involving [Chinese] activity there would raise national-security concerns," the US daily quoted a senior official as saying.

The US concern "is that the Chinese would develop a naval base in Equatorial Guinea, which would then give them a naval presence on the Atlantic," Major General Andrew Rohling, commander of the US Army Southern European Task Force—Africa, said.

Markets nosedive on rising Omicron cases

Sensex sheds 950 points; cautious approach ahead of RBI monetary policy, Fed meet dent investors' sentiment

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE bloodbath on Dalal Street continued on Monday as benchmark indices shed significant points over rise in Omicron cases in India. The country has so far reported 21 cases of Omicron variant — nine from Rajasthan, eight from Maharashtra, two from Karnataka and one each in Gujarat and Delhi.

Add to it, slump in Asian markets following Chinese property developer Evergrande's warning that it may run out of money and cautious approach of investors ahead of the crucial Reserve Bank of India's Monetary Policy Committee and Federal Reserve (USA) meet further dented investors' sentiment.

SENSEX INTRA-DAY MOVEMENT ON DEC 6

The BSE Sensex closed at 56,747, down 949 points while the Nifty50 shut shop at 16,912, down 284 points. The 50-share index Nifty is now trading below its 100-day moving average. According to market experts, if the new variant of Covid-19 spreads in India in the coming days, the market may continue to witness correction.

"If we compromise this level of 16800 in the coming session, one should get prepared for an extended fall towards 16600 - 16400 in coming sessions. On the flipside, 17000 followed by 17100 are to be seen as immediate supports. The banking index plays a vital role here because it is back to its '200-simple moving average' and hence, one needs to keep a close on it in the forthcoming session," said Sameet Chavan (Chief Analyst-Technical and Derivatives, Angel One Ltd).

Vinod Nair, Head of Research at Geojit Financial Services, said, "Ambiguity surrounding Omicron continued to dent the morale of domestic investors ahead of the important RBI policy announcement on Wednesday."

"The domestic market is expected to be volatile as the near-term will be dominated by developments on new variant and, RBI and Fed policy decisions. Market expects RBI to hold-on to the accommodative policy considering short-term uncertainties. However, a change is expected during H1 2022, which Indian market is factoring while global equities are trading mixed," added Nair.

Since the peak of Oct 19, Sensex has shed around 6500 points while Nifty has given up around 1700 points. This fall has eroded a large sum of money from the market. The BSE Sensex had a market cap of ₹274.69 lakh crore when the markets closed on Oct 19. On Monday, the figure declined to about ₹256.30 lakh crore. All of the 30 Sensex components ended in the red. Except United Phosphorus Ltd, all of Nifty50 stocks also registered a fall.

No plan to cut 18% GST on insurance premiums: Govt

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

DESPITE frequent requests from the insurance sector to reduce 18% Goods and Services Tax levied on the insurance premium, the Centre has said currently there is no recommendation to reduce the GST rate on health insurance premium.

"The Goods and Services Tax (GST) levied on health insurance premium is 18%. The rate of GST is decided on the recommendations of the GST Council, which is a Constitutional body comprising members from the central government and state governments. At present, no recommendation to reduce the GST rate on health insurance premium is under consideration of the GST Council," minister of state, finance Bhagwat Karad said in a written reply in Lok Sabha.

He was responding to a query on whether the Centre is taking steps to reduce the GST on insurance premium from the present 18% to 5%, considering the increase in health insurance premium by companies on account of Covid.

No relief on health plans

There was demand to reduce the GST on health insurance premium from 18% to 5%, considering the increase in health insurance premium amid Covid

There was demand to reduce the 18% GST on health insurance premium by the sector. Earlier, former Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority (IRDAI) member Nilesh Sathe had said: "Charging 18% GST (Goods and Services Tax) on insurance premium is atrocious".

"In the absence of any social security available to the citizens, insurance becomes a necessity. All essential commodities are out of the purview of GST, why should premium be taxed, and that too, so heavily," Sathe said, nowhere in the world one has to pay such heavy tax on insurance premium.

Similar opinion was given by LIC chairman MR Kumar in one of his media interviews.

"Personally, I believe that 18% GST levy on life insurance premiums is too high. It would make sense if people are given some reduction in terms of GST. In fact, LIC continues to absorb the GST on very old policies, but, off late we have to transfer it on to policy holders. I would like to reiterate that it is too high," Kumar said.

INPUT COSTS HIT

Tata Motors, Honda, Renault to hike prices from January

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

DAYS after India's largest carmaker Maruti Suzuki announced a price hike effective from next year, other auto makers such as Tata Motors, Renault and Honda said that they will do the same to offset the impact of rising input costs.

Tata Motors on Monday said it will hike prices of its commercial vehicles in the range of 2.5% from January 1. The price hike will be across segments. "The increase in the prices of commodities such as steel, aluminium and other precious metals, in addition to higher costs of other raw materials, has incited this price hike for commercial vehicles," it said in a regulatory filing.

Commenting on price hike for passenger vehicles, Tata Motors President Passenger Vehicles Business Shailesh Chandra said an appropriate price hike to at least partially offset this increase in costs seems inevitable in the near to short term.

Meaning, Renault is also looking at a "substantial" price increase across all its models from January. Honda Cars India also said that it is planning to hike prices in the near future due to the pressure of input cost.

Experts see 15-20 bps hike in reverse repo rate

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

AS the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) of the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) started its deliberation on Monday, most analysts believe that despite uncertainties due to the new Covid-19 variants, the MPC can no longer overlook the inflationary pressures. It would, therefore, have to change its policy stance, and increase the reverse repo rate — interest rate that banks receive for parking their funds with RBI — by 15-20 basis points.

Though, they do not see a repo rate hike before mid 2022.

Experts believe that the gap between repo rate (currently at 4%) and reverse repo rate (at 3.35%) is much more than the usual 25 basis points (bps), and therefore, the MPC may announce the first tranche of 15-20 bps reverse repo rate hike on Wednesday, Dec 8.

A reverse repo rate hike would encourage banks to park funds instead of making it available for lending. This would lead to reduction of excess liquidity from the system. The MPC may restore the width of the repo and reverse repo rate corridors to the usual 25 bps, by gradually hiking the latter, says Siddhartha Sanyal, chief economist in Bandhan Bank. He added that we are close to upticks in reverse repo rate - in the first tranche, the uptick can be just a token 15 bps.

Nomura, however, see a more knee-jerk reaction by MPC as it maintains its base case view that the RBI will normalise the reverse repo rate fully by 40 bps as economies are learning to live with the virus, GDP is back to pre-pandemic levels, and core inflation is near 6%.

The experts, however, feel that the repo rate cut is still two quarters away. Pankaj Pathak, fund manager, Fixed Income, Quantum Mutual Fund, sees repo rate cut in the latter part of 2022.

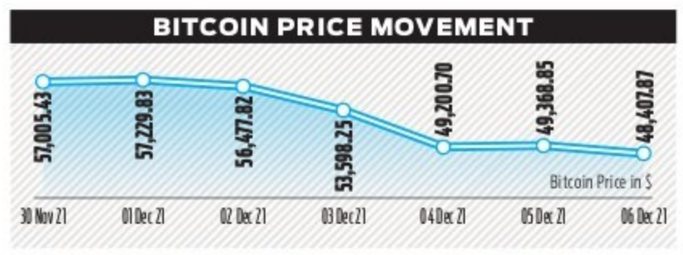
Global crypto market cap drops 2.28% in one day; not a correction, say experts

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

GLOBAL crypto market capitalisation witnessed a fall of 2.28% on Monday evening and stood at $2.23 trillion. While Bitcoin was trading at $48,482.76, a decrease of 0.81%, Ethereum was trading at $4,066.31, a decrease of 2.33% from the previous trading, according to Coinmarketcap.com, a global crypto exchange.

For the past one week, Bitcoin, Ethereum and Binance Coin have been trading in the red. The total volume in DeFI (Decentralised Finance) is currently $19.63 billion, 14.98% of the total crypto market over the last 24 hours. Crypto players point out that this fall is a sell off because of the holidays later this month. "These movements in December are much anticipated and it does not look like a correction to me," said Sathvik Vishwanath, co-founder and CEO, Unocoin. He adde: "These seem to be a sell off because of the holidays later this month and also given that December was never a stable month in the past."

BITCOIN PRICE MOVEMENT



In the Indian market (WazirX), Bitcoin was trading at ₹39,71,001, 1.6% down at 8 pm on Monday. "For the past few weeks, cryptocurrency's price has been falling because traders are moving away from riskier assets over worries about the Omicron and lower trading liquidity that tends to plague cryptocurrencies at weekends," said Manav Bajaj, Founder, Panther Quant. He suggested not to panic sell and that the market will recover soon.

Non-power sector units seek normal coal supply; no fuel shortage, says govt

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

CLAIMING the coal supply is far from normal, a captive power producers' body on Monday urged the government to normalise the coal supplies to Captive Power Plant (CPP) based industries or it would lead to an irrevocable collateral damage of these national assets. The Indian Captive Power Producers Association (ICPPA) said the shortage of coal supply will impact the aluminum industry operations the most as any power outage in aluminum plants will lead to complete shutdown, which will take minimum 12 months of recovery, resulting in job loss of more than 8 lakh people.

"Banks will have debt exposure of over ₹1 Lakh crore and additional national forex loss of ₹90,000 cr. (~$ 12 billion). Any shortfall in aluminum will jeopardise investments of ₹1.4 Lakh crore, including debt of ₹1 lakh crore," said ICPPA.

The association said in the last few months, coal supplies meant for CPPs and industries have been either stopped or significantly curtailed for diversion of the fuel to the power sector. It also highlighted the issue of insufficient coal rake supplies to CPP based industries at levels of 40% to 50%. "...curtailment to CPP is continuing despite power sector having come out of the coal crisis," said ICPPA.

However, the government on Monday said that Coal India Limited (CIL) dispatched 291.72 million tonne during Apr-Oct 2021 to enhance coal availability across the country. It is 54 MT more coal against the same period of last year.

These companies are—RateGain Travel Technologies, Shriram Properties, CE Info Systems (MapmyIndia) and a Rakesh Jhunjhunwala-backed Metro Brands.

According to a market analyst, these IPOs are likely to be received well as their valuations seem fair. "Current IPOs are fairly valued, and their equity offer are limited and likely to fully subscribed," said Gaurav Garg, Head of Research, Capitalvia Global Research.

He adds that investors can look into CE Info (MapmyIndia) as the company is providing 98.50% maps of the Indian road and having a monopoly kind of business. The current grey market premium for the CE Info is 1750 (71.64%) while for RateGain it is 550 (20%) and for Shriram Properties it is 150 (21.19%).

The IPO of CE Info Systems will remain open between December 9 and December 13.

It has fixed a price band of ₹1,000 to ₹1,033 for its maiden public offer as it plans to mop up ₹1,200 crore at the upper end of the price band.

RateGain, which is the largest software-as-a-service firm in India operating in the hospitality and travel sector of the country, will launch its three day IPO on December 7 at fixed price price band of ₹405-425. India's 1st Test vs SA at Centurion from Dec 26

Cricket South Africa (CSA) on Monday announced an updated schedule of India's curtailed tour of the country with Centurion hosting the first of the three Tests from December 26. The three ODIs will be played at Boland Park, Paarl (Jan 19 and 21) & Cape Town (Jan 23). Test schedule: 1st Test (Dec 26-30, Centurion), 2nd Test (Jan 03-07, Jo'burg), 3rd Test (Jan 11-15, Cape Town).

OFF TO CHANGING ROOM

Captain Kohli throws weight behind Rahane, but says will take a call after meeting with selectors and Dravid

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

WITH a difficult tour of South Africa looming — the only country where India are yet to win a Test series — Test captain Virat Kohli has thrown his weight behind under fire Ajinkya Rahane. On a day where India defeated New Zealand at the Wankhede Stadium by a massive 372 runs to go atop the ICC Test rankings, Kohli admitted there will be discussions about the middle-order, but will not any decision owing to outside pressure.

In a series where the spotlight remained firmly on Rahane and Cheteshwar Pujara, the experienced duo continued with their lean patch and failed to touch 50 even once. If that in itself wasn't enough to raise doubts over their spot, Shreyas Iyer's impressive show in the two matches, where he even scored a century batting at No 5 in his debut Test, has only added more pressure on the duo. When Kohli returned for the second Test, he was supposed to take a decision on who will make the middle-order cut at Wankhede, but injury to Rahane meant there was no need for it.

However, the situation will change when the team lands in Centurion for the first Test where everyone is fit and available. With KL Rahul and Rohit Sharma being the first-choice openers, India now also have Shubman Gill as an option to consider for the middle-order alongside Iyer. Despite their recent performances, what seems to be counting in favour of Rahane and Pujara is that, the duo have crucial contributions when the chips are down, an aspect India don't want to miss in South Africa.

Speaking at the end of the match on Monday, Kohli said he would continue to back his No 3 and 5. "I can't judge Ajinkya's form. Nobody can judge anybody's form, for that matter," Kohli said. "Because only an individual knows what part of his game he has to work on. But, as I have said in the past, it is important to back those players who have made impact performances in difficult situations and important Test matches in the past. We don't entertain this kind of atmosphere in the team that a player starts worrying about 'what next' the moment he is under a little bit of pressure."

Within the team management and the selectors, there is also acknowledgment that with all the pressure, the difficulties of living in a bubble-life has also not helped them. The duo, who only play long format, have not even had the opportunity of playing any first-class matches which players have used in the past to keep their rhythm flowing. In case of these two it has been start-stop, where continuity becomes an issue. In that sense, once they return from South Africa tour, the two may be asked to play in Ranji Trophy before the Sri Lanka Tests commences on February 25.

"We can't expect this kind of balance from those outside; where those who are singing praises will be asking for a player's head in two months. We don't react that way ever, nor will we do it in the future because we know how much effort and hard work a person put in to get into a positive mental space, and we will support it. Be it Ajinkya or whoever. We will never take decisions based on the outside atmosphere."

That said, Kohli also revealed that he is set to meet the selectors and head coach Dravid as India now have alternatives who are lined-up. That India want a clear role is understandable because uncertainties about the role could prove detrimental. With regards to Iyer and Gill, Kohli said any decision would be taken only after discussions.

"That's a discussion that needs to take place: who we think are specialists in certain positions. These are not the things I can sit here and answer in a press conference. You need discussions on these, you need to analyse what is best for the team and the individuals as well, and come to a common conclusion," Kohli added.

Lifters begin campaign at Commonwealth, World C'ships today

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

THE IWF World Championships and Commonwealth Senior Championships will begin in Tashkent, Uzbekistan on Tuesday with 20 Indian weightlifters, 10 each in men and women categories, taking part in it. The 2020 Tokyo Olympics silver medallist Mirabai Chanu had decided to skip the event with Jhilli Dalabehera replacing her in the 49kg.

The first batch from the country comprising four lifters (women in 49kg and 55kg, men in 55kg and 61kg) along with two coaches had reached the venue while the second batch comprising chief coach Vijay Sharma is scheduled to fly out on Tuesday morning.

The Commonwealth Championships will be held in conjunction with the World Championships and it will be open only to Commonwealth nations. Competitions will be held in 10 weight categories in men and women sections. Results from an event will be drawn for the World Championships and Commonwealth Championships separately.

Jhilli is hoping to do well in the competition. "I am feeling good. I hope I will be able to give my best performance in the competition," Jhilli told this daily from Tashkent. She will be in action on Wednesday. Sanket Sargar (55kg) will compete in his weight division on the inaugural day on Tuesday. The other lifters, who had already reached the venue are Guru Raja (61kg) from men's category and S Bindyarani Devi (55kg) from women's category.

"We are leaving tomorrow (Tuesday). Preparations have been good as we have been training hard at NIS Patiala for months now. I hope the efforts help us win medals in the competition," said Jeremy Lalrinnunga, the 2018 Youth Olympics gold medallist who will compete in 67kg.

Given the situation due to the Covid-19 pandemic, each person who is arriving to Tashkent international airport, has to produce a PCR negative test result that does not exceed 72 hours from the time the test was taken. The members of participating countries will have to undergo a rapid antigen test on reaching the hotel. In addition, a rapid antigen test will be carried out on all participants every fifth day of their stay.

Hamilton win sets up season finale at Abu Dhabi

AFP @Jeddah

LEWIS HAMILTON kept his hopes of an eighth world championship title alive with a thrilling victory in a dramatic and at times chaotic Saudi Arabian Grand Prix on Sunday.

The result left the seven-time champion level on 369.5 points with title rival Max Verstappen ahead of the final race in Abu Dhabi next weekend.

Hamilton was behind Verstappen for much of the 50-lap race which was stopped twice because of crashes and interrupted numerous times by the safety car and virtual safety car. But Hamilton, nursing a damaged front wing caused by a collision with Verstappen, came through late, to claim his eighth win of the season and the 103rd of his career.

The title will be settled in Abu Dhabi, although if neither finishes in the points it will be Verstappen, who has nine victories, who will take the title.

Verstappen finished second, 11.825secs behind in spite of being given a five-second penalty after colliding with the Mercedes star. He was later sanctioned by 10 seconds by the stewards although that did not impact his finishing position.

Hamilton's teammate Valtteri Bottas pipped Alpine's Esteban Ocon on the line for third place to give Mercedes a 28-point lead in the constructors' championship.

It was the first time that Jeddah had hosted a Grand Prix and the problems that the drivers, including Verstappen, had had in practice and qualifying were apparent again.

More teeth to workers to oppose low pay in EU

Action follows the publishing of Unequal Europe report showing wage inequality increased in 14 member states between 2010 & '19

TECH

BRUSSELS: EU ministers on Monday agreed measures to better protect wage levels in Europe and give workers more power to oppose low pay. While the proposal does not set an EU-wide minimum wage, once confirmed it would mark a significant step in promoting the European social model, especially in eastern European countries where salaries are low.

The 27 member states are historically divided on the issue because national pay systems and minimum wages vary widely, from 312 euros ($352) a month in Bulgaria to 2,142 euros ($2,419) in Luxembourg, according to figures published last year. Some Nordic countries are especially against any change to their collective bargaining system in which companies negotiate pay directly with powerful unions, without state intervention.

"Work should pay," said Slovenian labour minister Janez Cigler Kralj, whose country holds the EU's six-month rotating presidency.

"We cannot accept that people who put all their energy in their job still live in poverty and cannot afford a decent standard of living," he added.

In the plan, countries without collective bargaining systems, which typically deliver better wage conditions for workers, are urged to implement them.

Countries with minimum wage systems are tasked to ensure that pay levels are updated in a regular and fair manner.

An EU source said the compromise agreed was fragile and that negotiators will be under pressure to not give ground to the European Parliament, which passed its own version of the law last month.

France takes over the EU presidency on January 1 and has made forging a compromise between both versions of the plan a priority of its six-month term.

The gap in earnings between the richest and poorest Europeans grew in a majority of EU countries over the last decade, according to a new report which underlines the need for EU action to end poverty pay.

The 'unequal Europe' report released on December 3 by the ETUC and its ETUI research institute shows wage inequality increased in 14 member states between 2010 and 2019, most notably in Hungary, Spain and Belgium.

That is the result of a decrease in the share of workers covered by collective bargaining agreements and fall or freeze in the relative value of minimum wages, the experts behind the report explain.

Collective bargaining coverage has fallen in 22 of the EU's 27 member states since 2000 as a result of policies pursued by the EU and member states designed to make work less secure. Wage inequality increased in 8 of the 14 countries where the relative value of the statutory minimum wage as a percentage of the median or average wage has fallen or been frozen since 2010.

The findings come ahead of the final negotiations over the draft EU directive on minimum wages and collective bargaining following the European Parliament's support for strong action to tackle growing wage inequality. An increase in minimum wages would also cut the gender pay gap significantly.

ETUC Dy General Secretary Esther Lynch said of the findings: "It's clear that the policies pursued at EU and national level over the last decade have increased inequality and this report shows many workers are being left behind. CEOs can afford more luxuries while millions of working people struggle to pay their heating bill, have to eat less and poorer quality food and are forced into debt to afford their rent.

Work should pay. We cannot accept that people who put all their energy in their job still live in poverty and cannot afford a decent standard of living or struggle to pay rent

Janez C Kralj, Slovakia Labour Minister

Art behind the necropolis

Forty-seven years ago, a group of Chinese farmers digging a well chanced upon what was to become one of the greatest archaeological finds of the 20th century: The Terracotta Soldiers of Xi'an. Touted as the crown jewel of China's known archaeological history, the Xi'an findings have always been a mystery owing to their scale and intricate craft. But recent studies have shed light on the ways the artworks were created. Read on to find out more

THE TERRACOTTA SOLDIERS

8,000 Life-sized soldiers

272 kg Weight of each terracotta soldier

150 Cavalry horses

5.7 ft to 6.6 ft Chariots

520 Horses

40,000 Bronze weaponry found in the necropolis

700K Conscripted soldiers worked on the mausoleum

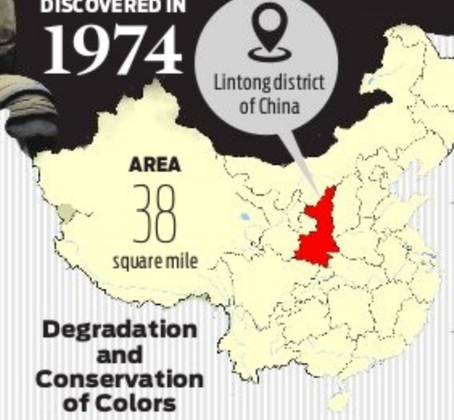
Statues recreated with pigmented colours on display at a museum

WHY WAS IT CREATED?

The Chinese philosophers thought if death were merely a continuation of life, then any ruler had to take his court, wives, staff, slaves and wealth. Evidence suggests that most subjects died willingly to accompany their dead leaders. These terracotta statues were supposed to accompany the king on his onward journey afterlife

DISCOVERED IN 1974

Lintong district of China



AREA 38 square mile

PURPOSE
The funerary statues were to accompany him into the afterlife for his protection

COMMISSIONED BY
Qin Shi Huang (259 BCE-210 BCE), the first Emperor of China

STAGES OF CREATION

THE RAW MATERIALS
Microscopic analyses have revealed the clay samples were sourced locally from the surrounding countryside

PROCESSING
Experts believe the statues were manufactured at a centralised facility as the quality of the finished products is consistent

LOGISTICS
Archaeologists surmise that the finished products were distributed to workshops near the necropolis

ADDING COLOUR

Statues excavated more recently, where polychrome surfaces have been conserved, show vivid colours – red, violet, pink, white, blue and green – from a range of inorganic minerals. There is also evidence of synthetic blue and purple barium copper silicate pigments, the first synthetic blue used in China (from 700 BCE to 220 CE)

Degradation and Conservation of Colors

After excavations, all the colours of the Terracotta Soldiers disappeared once the lacquer dried out. Chinese scientists are working closely with experts from the Technical University of Munich to produce methods that will preserve the delicate colours

THE KING

Qin Shi Huang was a fearsome leader, ready to dispose of those displeasing him. Experts say he also possessed an unparalleled ability to organise large groups of men into highly structured enterprises. Qin Shi Huang standardized production, and his keen sense of specialisation of labour allowed his men to hone their skills to mastery levels. Qin Shi Huang conquered and unified all of China. He created one system of writing, weights, and measures for all of his people. Additionally, the first version of the Great Wall, a super-highway linking the empire, and the largest mausoleum with thousands of realistic life-sized terracotta soldiers are all accomplishments of the First Emperor of China

Though built later, the seeds of the great wall were sown by the first emperor

MINDFUL SPACES

From curtailing food wastage to remodelling the layouts, here is how the hospitality industry is working towards sustainable practices during the pandemic

EXPRESS FEATURES

THERE'S no Planet B. This popular forward, often shared on social media, has brought to light the need for environmentally-friendly measures, especially with Covid-19 wrecking havoc across the globe. And in the last one-and-half-years of the pandemic, many individuals and organisations have taken measures to reduce the impact of harsh environment practices.

Take, for instance, Four Seasons Hotel Bengaluru, which, post Covid, has adapted to the ways of the new normal. When it comes to food and beverages, a lean and minimal mise en place while cooking, pre-portioning of food in a la carte orders are some ways being taken to control wastage. "Moving forward, as buffet operations start, we are offering live stations rather than having food prepared and kept in chafing dishes to help curtail further wastage. In banquet operations, we encourage organisers to guarantee guests for events as close to the number as possible to avoid wastage," says Fredrik Blomqvist, general manager, Four Seasons Hotel Bengaluru.

On similar lines, in the light of the pandemic, Grand Mercure Bengaluru at Gopalan Mall has taken another step in terms of sustainable produce by creating a terrace garden to harvest essential vegetables, hydroponics and more. "We've always explored locally-sourced ingredients. The vegetables and ingredients are from our own organic gardens and hand-picked estates and plantations across the state," says Sachin Maheshwary, general manager of the property.

According to Blomqvist, they have become even more mindful in the leveraging of resources post Covid and it has been a learning phase. "Lights in the lobby and all outlets are specially programmed to produce different effects at different times of the day. We have incorporated flexible and controlled lighting options to create specific atmospheres. Apart from a few areas, LED fixtures are used to ensure energy conservation and to reduce carbon emission," says Blomqvist, adding that they will be coming up with an on-site bottling plant, which aims to completely do away with single-use plastic water bottles. "Eliminating single-use bathroom amenities is a key priority by the end of 2022. A team with this purpose is specifically in place," says Blomqvist.

At The Oberoi, Bengaluru, 96 per cent of wind energy is used as a source of electricity, cleaning agents used in laundry have been turned into environment-friendly products; and their three-acre green open space is treated with water at their own sewage treatment plant. "We realised much before the advent of the pandemic that safety, hygiene and responsible hospitality are the pillars of building a hotel brand. The transition and changes that we brought about post the Covid-19 onslaught involved only a few extra measures and tweaks," says Visheshwar Raj Singh, vice president and general manager.

Gaurav Soneja, GM, ITC Gardenia Bengaluru

As the world is continuing to learn to live with the pandemic, ITC Hotels has launched a 'We Assure' initiative. With re-engineered experiences and a remodelled layout to support safe distancing, the hotel has put in place sustainable practices. "Some of the recently-incorporated measures include hands-free elevator operations, Ecobillz - contactless payment, and We Assure information audio played on loop for all banqueting events as well as at back of the house areas. Rooms are allotted only after stringent deep cleaning and sanitising the amenities," says Gaurav Soneja, general manager, ITC Gardenia Bengaluru.

AFTER HOURS

Tr(i)ying hard

An avid athlete, this doctor is now aspiring to compete in the full Ironman that comprises a 3.8-km swim, 180-km ride and a 42-km run

BALA CHAUHAN

A professional, whose world revolves around the operation theatre performing surgeries, begins his day much before the break of dawn, to pursue and train for his other passion – athletics and fitness. He trains for 15 to 16 hours every week and cycles every weekend on the Airport Road.

Dr Muralidhar S Kathalagiri, consultant - general & laparoscopic surgery has stood fifth in the 40-to-44-year category in Ironman 70.3 Barcelona Spain this year. "I now aspire to compete in the full Ironman and am training for the triathlon," says the surgeon.

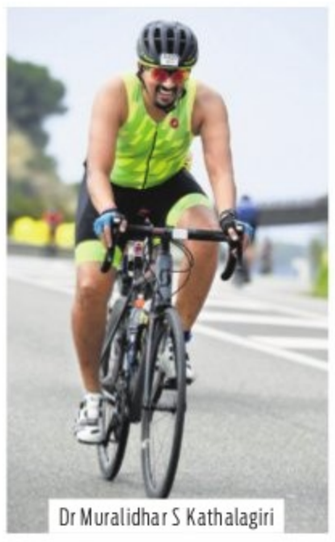
An Ironman Triathlon is one of a series of long-distance triathlon races organised by the World Triathlon Corporation (WTC) and is considered as one of the most difficult one-day sporting events in the world. It consists of a 2.4-mile (3.86 km) swim, a 112-mile (180.25 km) bicycle ride and a 26.22-mile (42.20 km) marathon run. The Ironman events have a limited time of 16 or 17 hours to complete the race.

The Ironman 70.3 involves a 1.9km of swimming, 90km of cycling and 21.1km of running in a hilly terrain, all in one stretch.

Muralidhar's passion for sports began during his student days in Sirsi. "I used to take part in 1,500m race and high jump in school in Sirsi. I was in the college cricket team. After completing my post-graduation in surgery (MS), I was in Karnataka Medical College (KMC) staff cricket team," he adds.

Later, when he joined a corporate hospital as a consultant general, laparoscopic surgery because of his busy schedule, lack of proper sleep followed by unhealthy food, he started gaining weight. "That was an alarm bell for me. By early 2016, I started running with the intent to lose weight and was also able to do the TCS 10 km run in May 2016. After completing my first 10 km run, I felt enthused to do more such marathons," says Muralidhar. He did his first half marathon in 2016 September and then there was no looking back. He then went for his first Full Marathon (FM) in Berlin followed by second FM (42.2km) in Mumbai in 2018 and third FM in Chicago Marathon the same year. He has completed five FMs till date.

In 2018, when Goa Ironman 70.3 was announced, the surgeon started working towards it. "Ironman has always been my dream since I started running. I registered for Goa Ironman 70.3 and started training for it. I started learning to swim in February 2019," he says.



Dr Muralidhar S Kathalagiri

Muralidhar starts his day at 4am and trains between 5am to 8 am, so that he can start his work by 9am.

The 2019 Goa Ironman 70.3 was his first triathlon which was a combination of 1.9km swim in the sea, 90 km cycling and 21 km running in quick succession to be completed in an 8 hr 30min duration. "It took me five hours and nine minutes to complete the triathlon. I stood fifth in my age category," he adds.

The 2020 triathlon was cancelled due to the pandemic but Muralidhar kept up with his training. This year, after receiving his vaccination, he enrolled for Ironman 70.3 Barcelona. "I take my family along for my athletic events. We turn it into a family holiday," he says, adding, "I am hooked to my routine of physical exercises. To stay fit requires discipline. I go for routine health check ups to ensure that I am physically fit for these events. Exercises and proper nutrition go hand in hand. I can feel the change in my stamina and energy levels. Physical exercises are a good addiction which I would recommend to everyone."

TRAIN OF THOUGHT

THERE are a few things that can swing you back into childhood – a paper boat or rocket, the smell of new books and yes, the window seat in a train.

As I boarded a train after almost a decade, to take that journey I had promised myself, I was determined to reconnect with that joy of decades ago. We would sit cross-legged, sticking our fingers out to catch the elusive wind, wonder at the birds and animals flying past, the green paddy fields, and listen to the clackety-clack of metal meeting metal as the train rattled on... Parents would point out and identify plants, birds, flowers, the areas we rolled through and the stations where we stopped. It was an education of sorts, one which could not be had on a bus trip or flight.

On this quiet morning, when the birds were still getting about their business, I sat at my window to the world, contemplating the slideshow of still life unfold at high speed.

I could feel that familiar thrill of watching the world, uninterrupted, for hours. The romance was just beginning, but I could not stick my fingers out, as I was sitting in a Vatanukulith coach – AC coach to the uninitiated. Those in the Shayanyaan coach could still feel the breeze. That's the sleeper coach. I realised that train stations and journeys have become a lot more complicated, and require a brand new vocabulary as we lurch towards a new India.

Not much had changed inside the train – the comfort level was bare, tea and snacks vendors would interrupt your reverie at regular intervals, tempting you with oily wares. The restroom (can you call it that?) stank of unadulterated urea. The stations, though, were cleaner and more comfortable than I remembered them.

My co-passengers were a couple with a young child, barely four years old, who perched on the berth above and called down to her parents every few minutes. She was promptly given a mobile to keep her occupied, as the parents returned to their own screens.

As the train trundled on, I saw the world in many perspectives – the architecture and structures of the passing villages and towns, the climate, soil and crops, giving a hint of what the economy could be like. There was also the demography, expressed in the spires of faith piercing through the settlements – glistening gopurams, lofty minarets and crosses – symbols of diversity. Primarily, I was looking out with adult eyes, seeing things I never noticed as a child.

What caught my attention, though, was the couple's complete disinterest in the passing environs as they barely looked up or out of the windows. The bored child clambered up and slithered down, and peered out once in a way. Not just this kid, those in the other compartments, too, were glued to mobiles – a train journey without much childish excitement.

It was a generation thing, I guess, but I felt sorry for them–they were missing out on a world of many hues rushing by.

As the first woman vice-president in the 153-year history of the prestigious Bangalore Club, Annabelle Manwaring tells CE about her decades-old association with the space

SANATH PRASAD

FOR Annabelle Manwaring, managing and strategising has been central to her job as an advertising professional. Although she quit her decades-long advertising job in 2006, the fundamental principles of leadership still stay with her. Now, as she takes over as the first woman vice-president of the Bangalore Club, many of these traits come in handy.

In the recently-concluded club elections, Manwaring was elected the vice-president, winning by over 250 votes. Manwaring, who is the chairman and owner of Delhi Public School, Whitefield, believes that it was her sociability and ability to manage people that bagged her the position. "It's important to understand the culture of an institution before you can be effective in running it. Having worked in the corporate and education sector, I look forward to steeping myself in the culture of the club," says the 69-year-old, who worked as the global creative director of Leo Burnett Worldwide, an advertising agency in the UK.

Manwaring's association with Bangalore Club dates back to the 1950s when she would visit the space as a child. Her father, Praxi Fernandes, the finance secretary, Government of India, became a member of Bangalore Club in 1956. Recalling the days when her father used to take her along to visit the club, Manwaring says, "The club was a place where industrialists, businessmen and visionaries gathered and built social camaraderie. I spent my childhood in the club; a favourite activity was swimming followed by a plate of chips. And I always looked forward to the children's Christmas party in our new frocks. The club was also a safe environment for children – a home away from home... and it still is," says Manwaring.

I spent my childhood in Bangalore Club; a favourite activity was swimming followed by a plate of chips. It was a home away from home...in fact, it still is

- Annabelle Manwaring

She believes that preserving the tradition and culture of the club is more challenging than preserving the heritage buildings. "A lot of youngsters usually spend time at pubs during weekends. I would like to see more youngsters coming to the club to understand the culture. It is important to preserve the traditional and heritage values like graciousness and respect," adds Manwaring.

With the new Covid-19 variant creating a sense of fear, the club is treading cautiously about Christmas and New Year celebrations. "Many members are requesting the committee to open up the club for activities. With a possible third wave, we will be adhering to the government guidelines and will be conducting small programmes with limited members in attendance," says Manwaring, who, as the first woman vice-president, hopes to make activities inclusive for both senior citizens and children.

BRIDE PRIDE

SHREYA VERONICA

THE wedding season is here and we all know how difficult it gets to choose the right outfit. We dream of wearing that perfect designer ensemble, but to zero in on that final look is an absolute task. Designers are cashing in on the season by making their bridal collection look royal and classy.

For instance, fashion designer Aisha Rao puts in her best when it comes to bridal wear. On a perpetual quest to better her designs each season, she is sometimes inspired by the ideas she gets after watching movies or visiting a place.

After showcasing her best at the Lakme Fashion Week 2021, Rao has now extended her collection with the most elegant lehengas that every bride would love to wear. "We are constantly adding more colourways to our existing line. We wanted a few exclusive pieces for Bridal Asia Delhi and these lehengas were a part of that collection," she says.

The designer used the colour blue for her latest collection and this has surely left us curious. "The colour blue has just worked wonders for us. Although our signature style is colourful, blue is a neutral base for the other colours and the look comes together well."

The backdrop against which the bridal collection was shot (empty water slides), was indeed something to talk about. Rao shares the story behind choosing such a place: "We wanted to shoot at locations that were whimsical, and ones that would immediately transport the viewer into another time."

Rao's go-to fabric choice is tissue, minus the fraying. "I brought back the lost luster of the most ubiquitous fabric spotted during yesteryear Indian weddings. A combination of metal and coloured thread in warp and weft brings about a sophisticated sheen. The fabric is light, but rich and comes with a sense of nostalgia. It reminds us of our mothers and grandmothers wearing it on their wedding and special occasions."

The colour blue has just worked wonders for us. Whatever we make in blue sees a good response. Although our signature style is colourful, blue is a neutral base for the other colours and the look comes together well

SHARING HOLIDAY SONG COVERS

(The authors run SaPa - the Subramaniam Academy of Performing Arts)

WE are already a week into December, and gearing up to celebrate the end of the year. These last few weeks of the year are known for great food, an overall sense of relaxation and unwinding, and of course, iconic songs that we've been singing since our childhood.

If you are a musician, this is one of the most fun times of year to explore and share your art with the world. Whether you're looking at writing original holiday music, or create your own cover of an existing holiday song, here are some tips that might help you reach more listeners:

Do your homework

From a legal standpoint, each song comes with different copyright regulations. If you are creating a cover of a public domain song (like Jingle Bells), the rules differ. If you're putting your own spin on an existing holiday song whose composer owns the rights to the song, the rules are different. And if you are making original music, you own all rights to the song, and have to follow a different set of laws.

Make it yours

Are you a multi-instrumentalist? You can add multiple layers to your song. Are you a Western vocalist? You can put a mellow, acoustic spin on Santa Claus is Coming to Town. Covering a song gives you an opportunity to be as creative as you'd like, and put in your personality into your art.

Create a holiday story around your music

Remember, there are thousands of artistes making and sharing holiday music. You can make your work stand out by keeping your audience hooked by making fun holiday artwork, posting behind-the-scenes photos and videos of yourself putting the song together, and sharing teasers (on social media, or as emailers and direct messages). If you are making a music video, use social media to take your listeners through the journey of recording, shooting, and editing with your team.

Release your song on all platforms

Use a distribution service like CDBaby, TuneCore, or Wiseband to put your music on streaming platforms. You can also submit your music to popular holiday playlists on these streaming platforms; if the editors select your music, it is a one-way ticket to popularity! You can drive more people to your music by sharing links on your social media platforms, conducting live online sessions to connect with your audience, and posting your track on popular groups that are known for sharing and appreciating new music.

This is a great time of year for feel-good music. Whether you're recreating an existing holiday favourite that makes your listeners nostalgic, or trying your hand at making new and exciting art to close out the year, December is a really special time to get started.

Getting over things

(The author is a counsellor with InnerSight)

FOR many of us, when we first fall in love or start a relationship, we start with the idea that this is The One – the relationship that will be ours forever, that the love we feel is so special and divine that it would be eternal, only growing in strength and intensity, that we would never be separated except maybe by death, and even then perhaps not as such love was not of just one lifetime but of seven or more. We don't typically find ourselves cynical about love early in our life – that cynicism comes later, after having our heart broken, or having had so much rejection, or having experienced the pain of love lost, either through people we are close to or through books and stories about it. Even where we have learned cynicism, chances are that when we still fall in love with someone, our heart aches with all the weight of wishing that it would be that way forever, that we could feel that sweet pain all our lives, and that this love fills us as fully all of our days as it does at that time.

Over time, when we have found our heart tossed around and bossed about, when we have had its tenderness calloused and bruised by the carelessness of uncaring people, we might carry that hurt and pain with us, holding it close and using it to build walls around us, complete with jagged edges that don't let others come in so easily. The walls come up slowly and with great difficulty at first, each bit cemented together with tears and despair, but once they are up, they are thick and hard, and not easily overcome.Much as we might have valued the feelings of love that we once longed for or even experienced deeply, we might now value the safety and security of the bruised self and just not be open to new love as easily.

The walls we put up are so strong that they cannot be breached from outside. Attempts at such breaching only end up making the walls bigger, broader and unbreachable. The only way for these walls to come down is from inside. Only we who have put up the walls can bring it down, and that is easier said than done. Each part of the wall was put up with a purpose behind it, and even if we try to bring it down ourselves, parts of us will resist such attempts, fearing it is unsafe, and raising up the walls again quickly.

Often, what works is to respect these walls and not try to break them down. Instead, we could maybe open up some windows, make some bridges, install some gatekeepers. What it means is to keep our walls up, and yet find ways of assessing the world outside, connect safely with people and keep ourselves alert for red flags. We don't have to get over things – we just need to get through them to a place where we can safely love again.

'PUNEETH RAJKUMAR IS A GUIDING FORCE FOR GANDHADA GUDI'

Wildlife photographer and director Amoghavarsha speaks to CE about his dream project

Puneeth Rajkumar and Amoghavarsha J S

A SHARADHAA

GANDHADA GUDI was a dream project, which was envisioned by Puneeth Rajkumar with wildlife photographer and filmmaker, Amoghavarsha JS. The makers officially launched the film's title on December 6 to mark Parvathamma Rajkumar's birth anniversary. "Appu's dream- an incredible journey, a celebration of our land and it's legend 'Gandhada Gudi'(sic)," tweeted Puneeth's elder brother, and actor, Shivarajkumar, who launched the title teaser. KGF star Yash, who unveiled the title on his social media platforms said, "I remember the twinkle in your eyes every time you spoke about this project. The passion, the enthusiasm you had towards this film showed how close it was to your heart. Thank you Appu sir for showing our Gandhadagudi through your eyes. It's truly a paradise."(sic).

Gandhada Gudi is bankrolled by Ashwini Puneeth Rajkumar's PRK Productions banner in association with Mudskipper. Incidentally, a 1973 Dr Rajkumar film on the same name was the first Indian film on forest conservation ever. After five decades, a film bearing the same title is hoping to bring back the legacy of a film that inspired generations to care for forests and safeguard them.

Amoghavarsha had mixed emotions when he spoke to CE on the sidelines of the title teaser release event. "This was Puneeth's dream, and all the time, it has been a question to me whether I am doing justice to it. If he was alive, what he would have said to this. This is just a title teaser, and we have a long way to go," the director told us and added that it will be a full-length film that will take the viewers on an experience like never before.

Amoghavarsha mentions that the rich visual imagery and storytelling of the film is the first of its kind, and the audience will get a chance to see Puneeth Rajkumar just as himself. "I still have one of the last messages sent by him, where he had requested me to remove 'Power Star' tag because he wanted to be just himself in this film," he reveals. The director explains that Puneeth was a multifaceted personality, who never shied of experimentation, and Gandhada Gudi is just one such example. "It is a new genre of a film, probably the first in the country with a wonderful cinematographic experience," says Amogha, adding, "People can't forget that legendary film, Gandhada Gudi, and the legend that his father (Dr Rajkumar) was, and of course the filmmakers'. The film is still an inspiration to all of us. A lot of my mentors have joined the forest department after watching that film. And, when Puneeth and I met to finalise the name, we felt that Gandhada Gudi was the right title to pay a tribute to that film," says Amoghavarsha.

The director took comfort with the fact that Puneeth had watched the film, and was excited to bring it to the theatres. "Now we don't want to delay it further to bring this film on the silver screen," says Amogha, adding, "I feel Puneeth is somewhere present with us. Every time I have a question or a problem, it is solved either through a phone call or some ideas, and I call it his guiding force. This is a film that is not limited to one state and needs to go out to the world."

With music by Ajaneesh Loknath and Pratheek Shetty as cinematographer, the film, now in post-production, will be released in 2022.

'RAVICHANDRAN IS ONE OF MY BEST CO-STARS'

CE FEATURES

NAVYA Nair last appeared in a Kannada film in Drishya (2014), and after six years, she is back to Sandalwood with Drishya 2. Ahead of the film's release in theatres this Friday, Navya Nair talks to CE about returning for the sequel. "From Drishya to Drishya 2, we all have grown up a bit, but otherwise nothing has majorly changed amongst us," says Navya, who also mentioned that there were a lot of good vibes on the sets of Drishya 2. "The crew, Ravi Sir (Ravichandran) and P Vasu created that atmosphere. We had become like a family. It doesn't happen in every film. Mostly, as professional actors, we shoot, we come back, and we are in our world. Here, even though we were not in touch on a daily basis, whenever we came together, we bonded so well," she adds.

Navya, who is looking forward to watching Drishya 2 in theatres, shares that Ravichandran is one of her best co-stars. "Firstly, he gives you a lot of freedom to perform. I do have the language barrier, but he always mentioned that I expressed all of it through my eyes. It was a confidence booster. I felt very close to him because of his behaviour. Every time I come to Bengaluru, I visit his house and relish the lovely idlis and sambar prepared by his wife. I don't have any inhibitions in acting, but when I'm close to anyone, I go out of the world to do anything," shares Navya, who plays the role of a housewife in Drishya 2.

The actor, who only wants to be part of roles that excite her, expresses her wish to be part of a historical film. "I have Indian features and am a proper Dravidian person. Historical characters look good on me," she says. The actor will next be seen in VK Prakash's Malayalam film.
